S. Feldman, 2020-01-17 First published in 1982 Since the 1960s there has been growing interest in and research on the adult years of the life cycle Previously developmental studies had focused on childhood and adolescence in which an orderly relationship between age and growth was assumed This volume looks at three periods of adulthood identified on the basis of chronological age young adulthood from 18 to 40 middle adulthood from 40 to 65 and later adulthood from 65 until death The authors of the series volumes are behavioral scientists with considerable experience in the education of health care professionals Most of them are also clinicians and their varied experience enables them to present their topics in a readable fashion The content of the texts presumes only a very basic knowledge of the behavioral sciences and emphasis is placed on the practical implications of research findings for health care delivery Life-Span and Change in a Gerontological Perspective Joep M. A. Munnichs, Paul Mussen, Erhard Olbrich, 2014-05-10 Life Span and Change in a Gerontological Perspective provides a critical evaluation of different methodological and theoretical approaches to the study of behavioral development in a life span perspective This book addresses the need for more integrated knowledge in the field of gerontological and life span psychology Organized into three parts encompassing 12 chapters this book begins with an overview of the most significant longitudinal studies in a life span perspective This text then examines the developmental research in adulthood and old age which provide insights into processes specific to the later periods of the life span and theoretical conceptualizations of development and its determinants during the whole life span Other chapters consider the connection between the age of longitudinal studies and the theory used implicitly This book discusses as well data on the intelligence of the elderly The final chapter deals with the problems and processes involving family networks and aging This book is a valuable resource for psychologists social scientists and gerontologists Developmental Psychology For The Health Care Professions Howard S. Mental Health, Spirituality, and Religion in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Age Albrecht Classen, 2014-07-28 This volume continues the critical exploration of fundamental issues in the medieval and early modern world here concerning mental health spirituality melancholy mystical visions medicine and well being The contributors who originally had presented their research at a symposium at The University of Arizona in May 2013 explore a wide range of approaches and materials pertinent to these issues taking us from the early Middle Ages to the eighteenth century capping the volume with some reflections on the relevance of religion today Lapidary sciences matter here as much as medical psychological research combined with literary and art historical approaches The premodern understanding of mental health is not taken as a miraculous panacea for modern problems but the contributors suggest that medieval and early modern writers scientists and artists commanded a considerable amount of arcane sometimes curious and speculative knowledge that promises to be of value and relevance even for us today once again Modern palliative medicine finds for instance intriguing parallels in medieval word magic and the mystical perspectives encapsulated highly productive alternative perceptions of the macrocosm and microcosm that promise to be insightful and important also for the post modern world
