C. Robert Muth,1970 When Middle-Class Parents Choose Urban Schools Linn Posey-Maddox,2024-05-31 In recent decades a growing number of middle class parents have considered sending their children to and often end up becoming active in urban public schools Their presence can bring long needed material resources to such schools but as Linn Posey Maddox shows in this study it can also introduce new class and race tensions and even exacerbate inequalities Sensitively navigating the pros and cons of middle class transformation When Middle Class Parents Choose Urban Schools asks whether it is possible for our urban public schools to have both financial security and equitable diversity Drawing on in depth research at an urban elementary school Posey Maddox examines parents efforts to support the school through their outreach marketing and volunteerism She shows that when middle class parents engage in urban school communities they can bring a host of positive benefits including new educational opportunities and greater diversity But their involvement can also unintentionally marginalize less affluent parents and diminish low income students access to the improving schools In response Posey Maddox argues that school reform efforts which usually equate improvement with rising test scores and increased enrollment need to have more equity focused policies in place to ensure that low income families also benefit from and participate in school change

State Approaches to the Management of Educational Research Ronald B. Jackson, 1972

The Urban School System of the Future Andy Smarick, 2012-10-12 For more than two generations the traditional urban school system the district has utterly failed to do its job prepare its students for a lifetime of success Millions and millions of boys and girls have suffered the grievous consequences The district is irreparably broken For the sake of today's and tomorrow's inner city kids it must be replaced The Urban School System of the Future argues that vastly better results can be realized through the creation of a new type of organization that properly manages a city's portfolio of schools using the revolutionary principles of chartering It will ensure that new schools are regularly created that great schools are expanded and replicated that persistently failing schools are closed and that families have access to an array of high quality options This new entity will focus exclusively on school performance meaning among other things our cities can thoughtfully integrate their traditional public charter public and private schools into a single high functioning K-12 system For decades the district has produced the most heartbreaking results for already at risk kids The Urban School System of the Future explains how we can finally turn the tide and create dynamic responsive high performing self improving urban school systems that fulfill the promise of public education
