Thorn Pendragon Alice Walker's The Color Purple Kheven LaGrone, 2009 Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prize winning novel The Color Purple is a tale of personal empowerment which opens with a protagonist Celie who is at the bottom of America's social caste A poor black ugly and uneducated female in the America's Jim Crow South in the first half of the 20th century she is the victim of constant rape violence and misogynistic verbal abuse Celie cannot conceive of an escape from her present condition and so she learns to be passive and unemotional But The Color Purple eventually demonstrates how Celie learns to fight back and how she discovers her true sexuality and her unique voice By the end of the novel Celie is an empowered financially independent entrepreneur landowner one who speaks her mind and realizes the desirability of black femaleness while creating a safe space for herself and those she loves Through a journey of literary criticism Dialogue Alice Walker's The Color Purple follows Celie's transformation from victim to hero Each scholarly essay becomes a step of the journey that paves the way for the development of self and sexual awareness the beginnings of religious transformation and the creation of nurturing places like home and community Purple, Green and Gold, 1924 Dance on Its Own Terms Melanie Bales, Karen Eliot, 2013-06-13 Dance on its Own Terms Histories and Methodologies anthologizes a wide range of subjects examined from dance centered methodologies modes of research that are emergent based in relevant systems of movement analysis use primary sources and rely on critical informed observation of movement The chapters emphasize dance history and core disciplinary knowledge in three categories of significant dance activity performance and reconstruction pedagogy and choreographic process and notational and other written forms that analyze and document dance Conceptually each chapter also raises concerns and questions that point to broadly inclusive methodological applications Engaging and insightful Dance on its Own Terms represents a major contribution to research on dance Finding Purple America Jon Smith, 2013-05-01 The new southern studies has had an uneasy relationship with both American studies and the old southern studies In Finding Purple America Jon Smith one of the founders of the new movement locates the source of that unease in the fundamentally antimodern fantasies of both older fields The old southern studies tends to view modernity as a threat to a mystic southern essence a dangerous outside force taking the form of everything from a bulldozer revolution to a national project of forgetting Since the rise of the New Americanists American studies has also imagined itself to be in a permanent crisis mode seeking to affiliate the field and the national essence with youth countercultures that sixties leftists once imagined to be the future Such fantasies Smith argues have resulted in an old southern studies that cannot understand places like Birmingham or Atlanta or cities at all and an American studies that cannot understand red states Most Americans live in neither a comforting premodern Mayberry nor an exciting postmodern Los Angeles but rather in what postcolonialists call alternative modernities and hybrid cultures whose relationships to past and future to stability and change are complex and ambivalent Looking at how the South has played in global metropolitan pop culture since the nineties and at how southern popular and high culture alike have in fact repeatedly embraced urban modernity Smith masterfully weaves together postcolonial theory cultural studies Lacanian psychoanalysis and surprisingly marketing theory to open up the inconveniently in between purple spaces and places that Americanist and southernist fantasies about who we are have so long sought to foreclose
