Parliament. House of Commons,1892 The Poisoned City Anna Clark,2018-07-10 Winner of The Hillman Prize for Book Journalism 2019 When the people of Flint Michigan turned on their faucets in April 2014 the water pouring out was poisoned with lead and other toxins Through a series of disastrous decisions the state government had switched the city s water supply to a source that corroded Flint s aging lead pipes Complaints about the foul smelling water were dismissed the residents of Flint mostly poor and African American were not seen as credible even in matters of their own lives It took eighteen months of activism by city residents and a band of dogged outsiders to force the state to admit that the water was poisonous By that time twelve people had died and Flint s children had suffered irreparable harm The long battle for accountability and a humane response to this man made disaster has only just begun In the first full account of this American tragedy Anna Clark's The Poisoned City recounts the gripping story of Flint's poisoned water through the people who caused it suffered from it and exposed it It is a chronicle of one town but could also be about any American city all made precarious by the neglect of infrastructure and the erosion of democratic decision making Places like Flint are set up to fail and for the people who live and work in them the consequences can be fatal Reports on Criminal Law, 1840 Report on Canadian Archives Public Archives of Canada, 1901 The Dialectics of Inquiry Across the Historical Social Sciences David Baronov, 2013-11-07 This book turns conventional global historical analysis on its head demonstrating first that local events cannot be derived logically or historically from large scale global historical structures and processes and second that it is these structures and processes that in fact emerge from our analysis of local events This is made evident via an analysis of three disparate events the New York City Draft Riots AIDS in Mozambique and a 2007 flood in central Uruguay In each case Baronov chronicles how expressions of human agency at the level of those caught up in each event give form and substance to various abstract global historical concepts such as slavery in the Americas global capitalist production and colonial postcolonial Africa Underlying this repositioning of the local and the ephemeral is an immanent phenomenological analysis that illustrates how mere transient events are the progenitors of otherwise abstract global historical concepts Traversing the intersections of human agency and structural determinism Baronov deftly retains the nuance and serendipity of everyday life while deploying this nuance and serendipity to further embellish our understanding of those enduring global historical structures and processes that shape large scale long term historical accounts of social and cultural change across the historical social sciences
