African American Writers & Classical Tradition William W. Cook, James Tatum, 2024-05-31 Constraints on freedom education and individual dignity have always been fundamental in determining who is able to write when and where Considering the singular experience of the African American writer William W. Cook and James Tatum here argue that African American literature did not develop apart from canonical Western literary traditions but instead grew out of those literatures even as it adapted and transformed the cultural traditions and religions of Africa and the African diaspora along the way Tracing the interaction between African American writers and the literatures of ancient Greece and Rome from the time of slavery and its aftermath to the civil rights era and on into the present the authors offer a sustained and lively discussion of the life and work of Phillis Wheatley Frederick Douglass Ralph Ellison and Rita Dove among other highly acclaimed poets novelists and scholars Assembling this brilliant and diverse group of African American writers at a moment when our understanding of classical literature is ripe for change the authors paint an unforgettable portrait of our own reception of classic writing especially as it was inflected by American racial politics

Rooted Cosmopolitanism Will Kymlicka, 2012 Canadians take pride in being good citizens of the world yet our failure to meet commitments on the global stage raises questions Do Canadians need to transcend national loyalties to become full global citizens Is the very idea of rooted cosmopolitanism simply a myth that encourages complacency about Canada's place in the world In this volume leading scholars assess both in theory and practice the concept of rooted cosmopolitanism using Canada as a test case They show that local identities such as patriotism and Quebec nationalism can but need not conflict with cosmopolitan principles Local ties enable and impede Canada's global responsibilities in areas such as multiculturalism climate change immigration and refugee policy and humanitarian intervention By examining how Canada has negotiated its relations to the world both within and beyond its own borders Rooted Cosmopolitanism evaluates the possibility of reconciling local ties and nationalism with commitments to human rights global justice and international law

Racial Discourse and Cosmopolitanism in Twentieth-Century African American Writing Tania Friedel, 2010-06-21 This book engages cosmopolitanism a critical mode which moves beyond cultural pluralism

by simultaneously privileging difference and commonality in order to examine its particular deployment in the work of several African American writers Deeply influenced and inspired by W E B Du Bois the writers closely examined in this study Jean Toomer Jessie Fauset Langston Hughes and Albert Murray have advanced cosmopolitanism to meet its own theoretical principals in the contested arena of racial discourse while remaining integral figures in a larger tradition of cosmopolitan thought Rather than become mired in fixed categorical distinctions their cosmopolitan perspective values the pluralist belief in the distinctiveness of different cultural groups while allowing for the possibility of inter ethnic subjectivities intercultural affiliations and change in any given mode of identification This study advances cosmopolitanism as a useful model for like minded critics and intellectuals today who struggle with contemporary debates regarding multiculturalism and universalism in a rapidly yet unevenly globalizing world
