Sherman, Barbara H. Sherman, 1975-01-01 Given in memory of Ethel A Tsutsui Ph D and Minoru Tsutsui Ph D Idaho Springs, Colorado Idaho Springs Mining Gazette, 1897* Creating Colorado William Wyckoff, 1999-01-01 Sprawling Piedmont cities ghost towns on the plains earth toned placitas set against the Sangre de Cristo Mountains mining camps transformed into ski resorts these are some of the diverse regions in Colorado explored in this fascinating book Historical geographer William Wyckoff traces the evolution of the state during its formative years from 1860 to 1940 chronicling its changing cultural landscapes social communities and connections to a larger America and showing that Colorado has exemplified the unfolding of a complex western environment Wyckoff discusses how nature capitalism a growing federal political presence and national cultural influences came together to produce a new human geography in Colorado He explains the ways in which the state s distinctive settlement geographies each took on a special character that persists to the present He leads the reader through the transformation of the state from wilderness to a distinct region capable of accommodating the diverse needs of ranchers miners merchants farmers and city dwellers And he describes how a state created out of cartographic necessity has been given uniqueness and meaning by the people who live there Munsey's Magazine for ... , 1892 The Trail of Gold and Silver Duane A. Cuntz, Charles Buxton Going, 1901 Hard As the Rock Itself David Robertson, 2011-05-18 The first intensive analysis of sense of place in American mining towns Hard as the Rock Itself Place and Identity in the American Mining Town provides rare insight into the struggles and rewards of life in these communities David Robertson contends that these communities often characterized in scholarly and literary works as derelict as sources of debasing moral influence and as scenes of environmental decay have a strong and enduring sense of place and have even embraced some of the signs of so called dereliction Robertson documents the history of Toluca Illinois Cokedale Colorado and Picher Oklahoma from the mineral discovery phase through mine closure telling for the first time how these century old mining towns have survived and how sense of place has played a vital role Acknowledging the hardships that mining s social environmental and economic legacies have created for current residents Robertson argues that the industry s influences also have contributed to the creation of strong cohesive communities in which residents have always identified with the severe landscape and challenging but rewarding way of life Robertson contends that the tough unpretentious appearance of mining landscapes mirrors qualities that residents value in themselves confirming that a strong sense of place in mining regions as elsewhere is not necessarily wedded to an attractive aesthetic or even to a thriving economy

After The Boom In Tombstone And Jerome, Arizona Eric L. Clements, 2014-10-01 Focusing on two Arizona towns that had their origins in mining bonanzas Tombstone and Jerome historian Eric L Clements offers a rare study dissecting the process of bust itself the reasons and manners in which these towns declined as the mining booms ended Tombstone was the site of one of the great silver bonanzas of the nineteenth century a boom that started in the late 1870s and was over by 1890 Jerome s copper deposits were mined for much longer beginning in the 1880s and enduring until the 1930s But when the mining booms ended each town faced its decline in similar ways The process of decline was more complex than superficial histories have indicated and Clements discusses the role of labor unions in trying to stave off collapse the changing demography of decline the nature and expression of social tensions the impact on institutions such as churches and schools and the human responses to continued economic depression But bust involved more than a steady decline into ghost town status Clements discovers the towns remaining residents employed numerous strategies to survive and reduce household expenses In the end both towns reinvented themselves as late twentieth century tourist attractions
