The A to Z of the Chinese Cultural Revolution Guo Jian,Yongyi Song,Yuan Zhou,2009-09-17 The Cultural Revolution in the People s Republic of China started in 1966 and lasted about a decade This revolutionary upsurge of Chinese students and workers led by Mao Zedong wreaked havoc in the world's most populous country often turning things upside down and undermining the party government and army while simultaneously weakening the economy society and culture Tens of millions of people were killed injured or imprisoned during this period and relatively few benefited aside from Mao Zedong and the Gang of Four the group that would eventually receive the blame for the events of the Cultural Revolution Given the turbulence and confusion it is hard to know just what happened The A to Z of the Chinese Cultural Revolution tackles this task First in an extensive chronology which traces the events from year to year and month to month then in an introduction puts these events in context and helps to explain them But most importantly the bulk of the information is provided in a dictionary section with numerous cross referenced entries on important persons places institutions and movements A bibliography points to further sources of information and a glossary will help those researching in Chinese

China's Strategic View June Teufel Dreyer, 1996 Although the militant rhetoric of past decades has abated the leadership of the People's Republic of China PRC is profoundly dissatisfied with the international status quo The dissolution of the Soviet Union weakened China's ability to wrest concessions from the United States by threatening to move closer to the USSR and from the USSR by threatening to support the United States While some leverage can and is gained by negotiating with the major successor state to the Soviet Union this leverage is more limited than in the past The Russian Republic is significantly weaker than the USSR and finds aid and investment from capitalist states such as the United States useful to its rebuilding efforts It is unlikely to jeopardize this aid by becoming too closely associated with Chinese positions that these countries oppose Other indications are that the Chinese leadership's goal is to replace the United States as the hegemonic power in the Asian region. It sees the PRC as an ascendant power while America, which has withdrawn from bases in the Philippines, downsized its military personnel, slashed its defense procurement programs, and consigned its navy to a littoral role, is seen as declining. Should China assume the role of hegemon, there are likely to be territorial readjustments in the region. The PRC contests ownership of several different islands and island chains with no less than six other countries, and there are concerns within India that the close relationship that has developed between China and the State Law and Order Restoration Council (SLORC) in Burma may have a Chinese presence in the Indian Ocean as one of its goals. Though Sino-Indian relations have been quite good in recent years, there are unresolved issues between the two countries, and China's victory over India in a 1962 border war is a painful memory for many Indians. The Chinese People's Liberation Army (PLA) plays a dual role in the country's strategic view: it participates in the formulation of strategy at the same time as it is charged with implementing that strategy. The apparent active involvement of higher echelons of the PLA in formulating national policy sets the Chinese military apart from the Western ideal in which politicians decide upon policy and the military implements it. Several caveats are in order here. Mao Zedong formulated a principle that is not very different from the Western ideal of the separation of army and politics: the party must always control the gun; the gun must never control the party. And Clausewitz, though saying that there can be no question of a purely military evaluation of a great strategic issue nor of a purely military scheme to solve it, also cautioned that political leaders should be careful not to ask the impossible of the military and advised them to consult with senior commanders in planning and conducting military operations.<sup>1</sup> Finally, virtually all the recent information indicating that the PLA is exerting pressure for a harder line internationally comes from the Hong Kong press and cannot be confirmed through mainland sources. Hence the dichotomy between the role of the military in the PRC and that in the West may be overdrawn. Analysts of recent Chinese foreign policy portray it as a struggle between soft liners and hard liners. Those who espouse a soft line believe that the PRC's best interests are served by negotiating settlements to China's territorial disputes with other nations and engaging foreign powers in dialogue on contentious issues such as trade disputes and intellectual property rights. Hard liners assume a more defiant posture. The doctrine of absolute sovereignty, the unilateral right of the PRC to annex territory it considers part of the sacred territory of China, and a skeptical attitude toward the claims of other countries characterize their stance.

The Chinese State in the Era of Economic Reform : the Road to Crisis Jay D White, 2016-09-16 Presents ten tales featuring Lord Bao, a wise judge who was a champion of righteousness and protector of the weak against the powerful. Modernization of the Chinese PLA: From Massed Militia to Force Projection Lt Gen JS Bajwa, Soldiers of Fortune: The Rise and Fall of the Chinese Military-Business Complex, 1978-1998 James C. Mulvenon, 2016-07-08 In 1978, faced with the pressure to modernize and a declining budget, the Chinese People's Liberation Army (PLA) reluctantly agreed to join China's economic reform drive, expanding its internal economy to market-oriented civilian production This work examines PLA s role in the economy up to 1998      The Chinese Communist Armed Forces Kenneth R. Whiting,1974 Although the history and present state of the Chinese Communist military forces are not as well covered as those of the Soviet Union nevertheless there is a relatively large number of books articles and source collections available in English Then why this study The answer is simply that this is an attempt to tell the story of the Chinese Red Army in as concise a form as possible without compressing the narrative to the point of distortion The study may seem overstuffed with facts or what pass for facts but the author can assure the reader that he did his best to eliminate all but those he considered essential The historical approach has been used for the simple reason that like any other organism the Chinese Red Army is a melange of strengths and weaknesses rooted in its evolution      The Chinese State in the Era of Economic Reform

Gordon White,1991-06-18 An assessment of the impact of the post Mao market orientated reforms in China on the Chinese state and its relations with economy and society It investigates the political and social consequences of an economic strategy which aims to introduce markets into a centrally planned socialist economy      Problems of Communism ,1969
Dislocating China Dru C. Gladney,2004-04 Until quite recently Western scholars have tended to accept the Chinese representation of non Han groups as marginalized minorities Dru C Gladney challenges this simplistic view arguing instead that the very oppositions of majority and minority primitive and modern are historically constructed and are belied by examination of such disenfranchised groups as Muslims minorities or gendered others Gladney locates China and Chinese culture not in some unchanging essential Chinese ness but in the context of historical and contemporary multicultural complexity He investigates how this complexity plays out among a variety of places and groups examining representations of minorities and majorities in art movies and theme parks the invention of folklore and creation myths the role of pilgrimages in constructing local identities and the impact of globalization and economic reforms on non Han groups such as the Muslim Hui In the end Gladney argues that just as peoples in the West have defined themselves against ethnic others so too have the Chinese defined themselves against marginalized groups in their own society
