Role Of Government In The Industrialization Of Iraq:

The Role of Government in the Industrialization of Iraq 1950-1965 Ferhang Jalal, 2015-05-08 Since 1950 the governments of Iraq have attempted vigorously to develop the economy and have stressed industrial development Here Dr Ferhang Jalal discusses analyses and appraises a number of policies adopted by the government of Iraq designed to promote the growth of the industrial sector The policies were of two kinds the establishment of enterprises financed constructed and operated by the government and the encouragement of the expansion of private industrial enterprises through provision of finance by way of tax exemptions of all kinds through controls over the allocation of investment and by protecting them from foreign competition The author discusses the extent to which investment programmes formulated by planners were able to be implemented and analyses in detail the factors facilitating and those constraining a more rapid rate of industrial growth

The Role of Government in the Industrialization of Iraq, 1950-1965 Ferhang Jalal, 1972-01 This study discusses analyzes and appraises policies adopted to promote the growth of the industrial sector

Role of Government in the Industrialization of Iraq, 1950-65 Farhang Jalāl, 1968 Role of Government in the Industrialization of Iraq, 1950-65 Farhang Jalāl, 1968 Iraq is a poor country with a per capita income of I D 76 0 212 per annum in 1965 She has underdeveloped resources and large supplies of foreign exchange from her oil exports She is not short of unskilled labour or land and excellent opportunities exist for development in agriculture Since 1950 the governments have attempted vigorously to develop the economy and have stressed probably incorrectly industry and industry has grown from 7 6% of national income in 1953 to 11 2% in 1963 at an annual average rate of 11 5% In this thesis I have discussed analysed and appraised a number of policies adopted by the government of Iraq designed to promote the growth of the industrial sector These policies were of two kinds i The establishment of enterprises financed constructed and operated by the government ii The encouragement of the expansion of private industrial enterprises by protecting them from foreign competition through the provision of finance by way of tax exemptions of all kinds and through controls over the allocation of investment This thesis shows that a key constraint on a more rapid rate of industrial growth and the long term development of a viable industrial structure has been the administrative bottleneck Thus central planners formulated investment programmes without regard to the capacity of government agencies to implement their plans Consequently only a fraction of funds available for industrialization plans was actually utilized Moreover because of the low quality and limited capacity of the administrative machinery in relation to the volume and complexity of tasks imposed on it tariff rates were determined haphazardly import prohibitions were determined without proper reference to economic principles tax exemptions were extended arbitrarily no proper steps were taken to provide industry with sufficient working capital and the government attempted to control the allocation of private investment by means of very restrictive and cumbersome procedures Consequently some of the designed incentives acted as impediments to private efforts

Hendrickson III,2014-11-25 As editor Kenneth E Hendrickson III notes in his introduction Since the end of the nineteenth century industrialization has become a global phenomenon After the relative completion of the advanced industrial economies of the West after 1945 patterns of rapid economic change invaded societies beyond western Europe North America the Commonwealth and Japan In The Encyclopedia of the Industrial Revolution in World History contributors survey the Industrial Revolution as a world historical phenomenon rather than through the traditional lens of a development largely restricted to Western society The Encyclopedia of the Industrial Revolution in World History is a three volume work of over 1 000 entries on the rise and spread of the Industrial Revolution across the world Entries comprise accessible but scholarly explorations of topics from the aerospace industry to zaibatsu Contributor articles not only address topics of technology and technical innovation but emphasize the individual human and social experience of industrialization Entries include generous selections of biographical figures and human communities with articles on entrepreneurs working men and women families and organizations They also cover legal developments disasters and the environmental impact of the Industrial Revolution Each entry also includes cross references and a brief list of suggested readings to alert readers to more detailed information The Encyclopedia of the Industrial Revolution in World History includes over 300 illustrations as well as artfully selected extended quotations from key primary sources from Thomas Malthus Essay on the Principal of Population to Arthur Young s look at Birmingham England in 1791 This work is the perfect reference work for anyone conducting research in the areas of technology business economics and history on a world historical scale      Comprehensive Report of the Special Advisor to the DCI on Iraq's WMD. Ghantus,2020-09-10 The Arab countries are increasingly recognising their importance as a regional economic grouping Given the highly skewed distribution of natural human and financial resources the course of economic development in the Arab countries seems to be interrelated Through pooling their resources and markets these countries will not only be able to optimise investment decisions but also broaden the potential for development This book argues that economic integration is not merely a question of reducing or eliminating discriminatory measures as emphasised in previous integration attempts It calls rather for a positive action based on a regional investment strategy which coordinates production programmes to reap the benefits of specialisation and scale The book focuses on past industrialisation efforts in the Arab countries and examines the emerging patterns of industrial growth A pioneering attempt is made to identify specific industries whose economic viability can be enhanced by conceiving them on a regional basis The book concludes by framing a strategy for an integrated industrial development in the Arab region First published in 1982
