Williams,2021-12-01 Rare unique and irreplaceable precious native rainforests occupy a precariously small part of Australia while retaining a remarkable level of both biological and chemical diversity unrivalled by any other ecosystem Australia s ancient history and traditions are intimately intertwined with the rainforest plants that humans have utilised as both food and medicine Phytochemistry of Australia s Tropical Rainforest is a record of this history and details how our understanding of these plants has led to the discovery of anaesthetics analgesics steroids antimalarials and more It provides an insight into the habitat ecology and family associations of hundreds of species and explores their future therapeutic potential alongside phytochemical studies of the ancient plant lineages Toxicological evaluations of important poisonous plants are also included Rainforests provide shelter for unique flora and fauna that are counted among the rarest species on Earth many of which are illustrated in this book This comprehensive work is an essential reference for phytochemists ethnobotanists and those with an interest in rainforests and their medicinal and botanical potential Foundations of Culture Harald Haarmann,2007 Constructing culture means constructing knowledge and making it operational for the benefit of sustained community life As a cognitive process knowledge construction does not evolve in a vacuum but rather interacts with belief systems and worldview Cultural knowledge is modulated by key factors such as time linear versus non linear conceptions of reality physical imagined virtual identity and intentionality The critical investigation and comparison of cultures in space and time call for a revision of several concepts These include utility as the maxim of modern Euro American society prototype as an allegedly unified concept of culture evolution and replacement as a generalizing signifier for the exchange of old items for new ones The working of cultural memory is understood as the storage capacity of items of knowledge relating to the past present and future according to parameters of experienced rather than absolute time This study discusses a wide selection of the variables shaping the foundations and fabric of culture starting with the human capacities for symbol making and using sign systems The impact of knowledge construction on the culture process is articulated in 30 postulates concerning the dynamics of communal life and patterns of sustenance the relationship between the natural environment and cultural space and the life cycle of cultures

Designing Therapeutic Environments Bruno Marques, Jacqueline McIntosh, 2025-04-17 This book draws on the relationship between culture and the environment and its connection with health and well being Therapeutic environments are settings that comprise the physical ecological psychological spiritual and social environments associated with treatment and healing Throughout the chapters the understanding of therapeutic environments is broadened through the exploration of specific Indigenous cultural and social dimensions Case studies comprise a combination of research papers regarding the theoretical and conceptual underpinnings of therapeutic environments and their application following traditional methods This book contributes to the expanding body of knowledge focusing on the role of therapeutic environments and their role in shaping health and well being through the development of new research methods This book is essential for practitioners scholars and students in architecture landscape architecture interior architecture urban design planning geography building science public health and environmental engineering

The Varieties of Temporal Experience Michael D. Jackson, 2018-04-10 What does it mean to live in time between the unforeseeable and the irreversible In The Varieties of Temporal Experience Michael Jackson demonstrates the significance of a phenomenology of time for ethnography philosophy and history through a multifaceted consideration of the gap between our cultural representations of temporality and the bewildering multiplicity of our experience of being in time Jackson explores temporality in a subjective mode as a form of literary anthropology The first part of the book tells the story of John Joseph Pawelka whose 1910 escape from prison and subsequent disappearance became one of New Zealand's great unsolved mysteries discussing what it reveals about the interplay of popular stories hidden histories and media narratives in constructing allegories of national and moral identity In the second Jackson reflects on journeys up and down the islands of New Zealand touching on the ways that personal stories are interwoven with social and historical events Throughout this groundbreaking book Jackson juxtaposes philosophy history and ethnography in an attempt to do justice to the extraordinary variety of temporal experience at the same time exploring the ethical and existential quandaries that arise from the complexity of lived time
