The Macroeconomics of Financing Government Expenditure Ramkishen S. Rajan,Mukul G. Asher,1997 This book surveys the main issues relating to the static macroeconomic consequences of the government budget constraint that is the effects of alternative sources of financing government expenditure on macroeconomic variables such as inflation exchange rates interest rates national output private savings and investment Government expenditure is constrained by available sources of finance broadly divided into internal and external sources The study advocates a judicious balance between the alternative sources for the financing mix to be adequate as well as consistent with macroeconomic stability BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Creative Destruction Raul Luciano Katz,2002 Schumpeter s framework of creative destruction applied to the rapidly changing telecommunications and related Internet industries More than fifty years ago Joseph Schumpeter stated that processes intrinsic to a capitalist society produce a creative destruction whereby innovations destroy obsolete technologies only to be assaulted in turn by newer and more efficient rivals This book asks whether the current chaotic state of the telecommunications and related Internet industries is evidence of creative destruction or simply a result of firms governments and others wasting valuable resources with limited benefits to society as a whole In telecommunications for example wireless IP and cable based technologies are all fighting for a share of the market currently dominated by older circuit switched copper terminated networks This process is accompanied by mergers acquisitions bankruptcies and investment and divestment in worldwide markets The selections discuss the primary challenge facing firms governments and other players how to exploit the opportunities created by such destructive dynamics They highlight the importance of national regulations promoting competition and nonmonopolistic market structures as well as the role of new technologies such as the Internet in driving down the price and speeding the diffusion of innovative products and services in telecommunications media electronic retailing and other new economy industries Improving State Enterprise

Performance Russell Muir,Joseph P. Saba,1995-01-01 Living Standards Measurement Study Paper No 120 Provides an overview of the World Bank s Living Standard Measurement Studies LSMS surveys and outlines how readers may find more information on specific surveys A first reference for those interested in using LSMS data in their research A Strategy to Develop Agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa and a Focus for the World Bank Kevin M. Cleaver,1993-01-01 For 25 years population growth has outpaced increases in agricultural production in Sub Saharan Africa The lack of food and the degradation of agricultural land have forced policymakers to reassess agricultural strategies for the region This paper provides such a reassessment by identifying policies and investments that have worked and those that have not The author sets out the common elements required for agricultural and rural development throughout the region The strategy presented in this paper comprises elements from several development sectors including transport water supply education finance and the environment The author makes five broad recommendations to promote Region adoption of policies to promote private sector farming and agricultural marketing processing and credit development and distribution of new technologies inclusion of farmers in decisions affecting their livelihood development of infrastructure and social programs in support of agriculture improved management of natural resources Projections of the likely effects of the proposed policies and investments are included Tables throughout the text present statistics on agricultural growth rates commodity prices and deforestation in the region An annex contains more general tables with information on population growth and fertility rates land use agricultural exports and droughts The strategies suggested in this paper will be of interest to policymakers academics and to development practitioners involved in African agriculture Foreign Direct Investment Dale R. Weigel, 1997-01-01 The report reviews lessons from the International Finance Corporation's IFC investment and advisory experience in the developing world which show the interactions between policy frameworks and the volume and structure of foreign direct investments FDI Case studies show how the Corporation promotes successful project structures and regulatory changes as it tries to attain the strongest development impact for investments In developing countries FDI has flowed mainly into manufacturing and processing industries In the past investment attractiveness had been closely linked to possession of natural resources or a large domestic market while production and trade globalization competitiveness as a location for investment and exporting have become the main determinants of attractiveness Sources of FDI in the past came almost exclusively from industrial countries though recently those sources have widened emerging from developing countries in their own right and for their own regions IFC as an international initiative to promote FDI in developing countries is liable to promote bilateral trade agreements bilateral and multilateral financial institutions and investment promotion programs its advisory role may vary from diagnostic studies overviewing constraints to FDI to investment policy studies giving specific solutions on either changes or strategies The study further looks at how policy environment is set and at finding investor opportunities through project financing largely structured as joint ventures The inherent fragile nature of joint ventures restricts foreign ownership thus limiting project structures however careful project design has led to successful operations by ensuring management and financial arrangements Still to maximize benefits an unfinished agenda of policy reform remains and as more countries open to FDI this integration will lead to an overall increase in FDI flows Annual World Bank Conference on Development Economics 2008, Global Justin Yifu Lin, Boris Pleskovic, 2009-09-22 This book presents selected papers from the ABCDE Meetings held May 17-18 2007 in Bled Slovenia Hosted by the World Bank and the Government of Slovenia more than 400 experts from countries around the world met to deliberate the theme Private Sector and Development This volume presents papers on financial inclusion factors that matter the most for business climate and the provision of public services by non-state actors Legal Aspects of Privatisation Bulent Seven, 2002 The main aims of this thesis are as follows a To present a comprehensive analysis of the concept of privatisation its origins and limits b To identify the legal and institutional framework for privatisation in different European countries from a comparative perspective c To define and analyse particularly legal issues which arise during the privatisation transactions e.g. labour law competition law etc d To evaluate which features of the successful legal and organisational framework of privatisation have been successful so as to provide guidelines for those individuals and organisations participating in the privatisation exercises This work found out that there is no simple internationally applicable recipe for privatisation various legal methods and techniques can be used to privatise state-owned enterprises Because each country has different circumstances it is impossible to provide a unique model for privatisation each country needs to design its own model according to its circumstances Privatisation is an essential but insufficient element for structural economic reform in the economy and society Privatisation is not a panacea it is not the solution to every economic and administrative problem selling an enterprise to the private sector does not mean an end to all problems Also privatisation is not an overnight process or a magic touch it will be a lengthy process Furthermore a decision that something can be privatised does not mean that it should be privatised In that context privatisation is not good or bad it is an economic and social instrument If it is well designed it may bring substantial benefits to the economy and society In many countries many state owned enterprises particularly the ones which are financially weak have still not been privatised This finding revealed that the privatisation process will be in the political and economic agenda for at least few more decades Privatization Azizul Islam, Carolina Monsalve, United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 2001 Privatisation has emerged as a major policy issue for most developing countries in recent years as part of the economic reform agenda for structural adjustment programmes that embrace free trade financial liberalisation and a reduction of state involvement in the economy This book reviews research into the impact of privatisation on economic efficiency employment equity and the government budget and seeks to identify the preconditions required in order to achieve effective privatisation policies
