The Russian-American Company Rossiiskó-amerikanskai[a] kompanii[a],1982 The Russian American Company Rossiiskó-amerikanskai[a] kompanii[a],1984 Translations from the original archival documents Records of the Russian-American Company Raymond Henry Fisher,1971 Myth and Memory John Sutton Lutz,2011-11-01 The moment of contact between two peoples two alien societies marks the opening of an epoch and the joining of histories What if it had happened differently The stories that indigenous peoples and Europeans tell about their first encounters with one another are enormously valuable historical records but their relevance extends beyond the past Settler populations and indigenous peoples the world over are engaged in negotiations over legitimacy power and rights These struggles cannot be dissociated from written and oral accounts of contact moments which not only shape our collective sense of history but also guide our understanding of current events For all their importance contact stories have not been systematically or critically evaluated as a genre Myth and Memory explores the narratives of indigenous and newcomer populations from New Zealand and across North America from the Lost Colony of Roanoke on the Atlantic seaboard of the United States to the Pacific Northwest and as far as Sitka Alaska It illustrates how indigenous and explorer accounts of the same meetings reflect fundamentally different systems of thought and focuses on the cultural misunderstandings embedded in these stories The contributors discuss the contemporary relevance production and performance of Aboriginal and European contact narratives and introduce new tools for interpreting the genre They argue that we are still in the contact zone striving to understand the meaning of contact and the relationship between indigenous and settler populations A Stern and Rock-bound Coast Linda A. Cook,Frank Blaine Norris,1998 A Construction History of Sitka, Alaska, as Documented in the Records of the Russian-American Company Katherine L. Those of Little Note Elizabeth M. Scott, 2022-07-12 Because some classes of people may not have been considered worthy of notice by dominant social groups in the past they may be less visible to us today in historical and archaeological records consequently they remain less studied This volume attempts to redress this oversight by presenting case studies of historical and archaeological research on various ethnic racial gender and socioeconomic groups in colonial and post colonial North America These contributions illustrate how historical archaeologists and ethnohistorians have used documentary and archaeological evidence to retrieve information on neglected aspects of American history They explore ways of making more visible Native Americans African Americans and Euro Americans of differing ethnic groups and economic classes and also shed new light on such groups as celibate religious communities women in predominantly male communities and working class and middle class women in urban communities Material evidence on those of little note provides not only fresh insight into our understanding of daily life in the past but also a refreshing counterpoint to the male and Euro centered analysis that has characterized much of historical archaeology since its inception Readers will find many chapters rewarding in their application of sophisticated feminist theory to archaeological data or in their probing of complex relational issues concerning the construction of gender identity and gender relationships As the first archaeologically focused collection to examine the interconnectedness of gender class race and ethnicity in past societies Those of Little Note sets new standards for future research
