Selected Works Of Deng Xiaoping 197582 V 2:

Deng Xiaoping Michael Dillon,2014-10-27 One of the most important figures in global politics during the second half of the 20th century Deng Xiaoping is generally considered the central figure behind China's economic liberalization programme that produced historically unprecedented growth rates and development beginning in the late 1970s Lifting nearly a billion people out of poverty Deng Xiaoping's Four Modernisations called for reform in agriculture industry military and science and technology Today these reforms are considered to be the crucial turning point in modern Chinese history enabling China to effectively harness its previously latent power in its quest to become a global economic superpower Just ten years after this tremendous achievement Deng's brutal suppression of the democracy movement at Tiananmen Square severely undermined his international and domestic reputation To explain the seeming contradictions between Deng Xiaoping's desire for economic liberalization and political conservatism Michael Dillon's biography utilizes recently released Chinese sources to detail Deng Xiaoping's emergence from a minority second class community in the Sichuan province via education in France to his meteoric rise to the top of the CCP's political hierarchy illustrating the ways in which his life of struggle and survival shaped his political career Dillon's biography addresses Xiaoping as both an intensely committed communist capable of playing a principal role in the Great Leap Forward from 1958 to 1961 while incurring the wrath of Mao only ten years later as he was exiled and purged during the Cultural Revolution Emphasizing Deng Xiaoping's effectiveness as a party operator and political bruiser rather than an intellectual capable of formulating the reforms for which he eventually took credit this book sheds light on Deng's ability to capitalize upon the planning expertise of other party members This biography of the central figure in China's economic liberalization is essential for any reader interested in or affected by China's rise to global prominence

From Post-Maoism to Post-Marxism Kalpana Misra,1998-06-23 This text chronicles Deng Xiaoping's institution of far reaching and practical economic reforms that seem at odds with Communist theory and its emphasis on ideology In fact while Deng often turned to Mao for ideological justification of his reforms those very reforms seemed to wear away to official ideology Ultimately even though the post Mao

Law and Society in East Asia Christoph Antons,2017-07-05 The massive and complex process of change in East Asia over recent decades has brought about a transformation in the nature of law and legal institutions in the region Whilst the process of change has to some degree mimicked western models of law and legal change there have been significant differences in approach due to the different social foundations of East Asian societies. The more obvious of these has been the variety of ways in which rule of law ideas have been adopted in many East Asian countries where the role of the state is more dominant when compared with Western models. This volume brings together a selection of the most important writings on East Asia of researchers in recent years and shows the broad range of questions which researchers have been addressing about the effect of law reform and legal change in societies dominated by traditional values and political forces and at a time of massive economic change.

Dispute Resolution in the People's Republic of China Zhiqiong June Wang, Jianfu Chen, 2019-12-02. Dispute resolution reforms in China in the last decade or so have all centred around the strategy of establishing an integrated dispute resolution system as part of China's modern governance system. This new integrated system referred to as the Mechanism for Pluralist Dispute Resolution (PDR) in China serves as a dispute resolution system as well as a comprehensive social control mechanism. This book is the first academic attempt to explain the methods of civil and commercial dispute resolution in China from the perspective of PDR. It systematically and critically examines the development of China's dispute resolution system with each chapter analysing in detail the development and transformation of the different institutions, mechanisms and processes in their historical, politico-economic and comparative context.

Institutions and Investments Jun Fu, 2010-06-08. As China continues to be heralded as a rising economic power, the need for an understanding of its institutional effects such as investment-related policies, regulations and laws on foreign direct investment increases as well. Institutions and Investments employs interdisciplinary perspectives from economics, business law and political science to shed light on the interaction between institutional changes and investment patterns and to form a clear picture of investment behavior as China's legal and regulatory infrastructure has developed over the reform years. Organized into three main parts, the book first discusses the evolution and nature of China's FDI regulatory framework. Part 2 examines the various modes and variant patterns of FDI in China in the reform years. Part 3's central task is to demonstrate a systematic link between institutional changes in China's FDI regulatory framework and the changing patterns of FDI. In conclusion, Jun Fu finds that China has made substantial progress from a command economy to a market system but that it still has a long way to go before it truly attains a transparent and rule-based system. This book adds new dimensions to the scholarship on China as a growing economic power and will be of particular interest to international economists, political scientists and business scholars studying China. Jun Fu is Associate Professor in the School of Economics and Management, Tsinghua University.

Law, Capitalism and Power in Asia Kanishka Jayasuriya, 2006-06-19. A challenging and provocative book that contests the liberal assumption that the rule of law will go hand in hand with a transition to market-based economies and even democracy in East Asia. Using case studies from Hong Kong, China, Indonesia, Malaysia, Taiwan, Japan and Vietnam, the authors argue that the rule of law is in fact more likely to provide political elites with the means closely to control civil society. It is essential therefore to locate conceptions of judicial independence and the rule of law more generally within the ideological vocabulary of the state

Law, Wealth and Power in China John Garrick, 2010-10-04 This book examines the law reforms of contemporary China in light of the Party state's ideological transformation and the political economy that shapes these reforms. This involves analysing three interrelated domains: law reform, power and wealth. The contributors to this volume employ a variety of perspectives and analytical techniques in their discussion of key themes including commercial law reform and its governance of wealth and regulation of economic activity, the influence and authority of the Party state over China's economic activity and the influence of wealth and the wealthy in economic governance and legal reform. Utilizing an interdisciplinary approach, this book presents analytical perspectives of new work or new lines of thinking about the new wealth, power and law reforms of China. As such, critical boundaries are explored between legal and financial reforms and what these reforms signify about deeper ideological, economic, social and cultural transformations in China. The book concludes by asking whether there is a China model of development which will produce a unique variety of capitalism and indigenous variant of rule of law and examining the winners and losers in the transition from a centrally planned economy to a market economy. Law, Wealth and Power in China will be of interest to students and academics of comparative law, Asian law, Chinese economics and politics, Chinese Studies as well as professionals in investment banking, finance and government.

China from the Inside Out Ronald C. Keith, 2009-09-15 Fresh look at Kurdistan, Iraq today including the role of central government and international forces and the region's political and economic future.

Law and Development in East and South-East Asia Christoph Antons, 2005-10-05 During the 1980s and 1990s, Asian developmental states attracted much attention in political science and economics literature, but the role of law in the economic development was neglected. It was only after the Asian crisis of 1997 that many analysts began to focus on a lack of regulation and transparency as a major factor triggering the crisis. The crucial questions now are: how successful the current reforms will be and which features of the Asian approach to commercial law will be resistant to reform pressures. This book examines the prospects for commercial law reform in Asia, giving particular attention to Japan and Singapore as frequently cited role models for Asian developmentalism and also examining development-related business laws in countries such as China, Korea, Indonesia, Malaysia, Vietnam and the Philippines.

The International Environment and China's Twin Models of Development Lai Sing Lam, 2007 Mao's twin political cum economic development models did not evolve alone from the internal environment. Rather, they were historically constructed in relation to the developments in the Sino-US and Sino-USSR relations. This work traces the complex role that these relations had in the formation of Mao's worldview of the West and the Soviet Union as a hostile international environment. The author looks at the intricate interactions between China and each of the twin superpowers or both in unison: Mao's leadership and the masses and his development model during his time as well as the post-Mao's development model he created in a favourable international environment starting in 1971. The book seeks to explain how political, economic and cultural changes were produced through various processes of interactions whether the Great Leap Forward the Cultural Revolution the present on going modernization revolution trade or global participation The Dynamics of China's Rejuvenation J. Huang,2004-06-29 The last two and a half decades witnessed China's epoch making economic growth and great social changes which indicates the commence of China's national rejuvenation after a near two centuries long stagnant or backward period In exploring the causal dynamics of China's rejuvenation Huang's book examines the internal and external elements from various sides in both the comprehensive way and the separate way thus providing a convincing explanation about the driving force of China's marvellous development
