Mono no Aware and Gender as Affect in Japanese Aesthetics and American Pragmatism Johnathan Flowers, 2023-03-20 Mono no Aware and Gender as Affect in Japanese Aesthetics and American Pragmatism places the naturalistic pragmatism of John Dewey in conversation with Motoori Norinaga's mono no aware a Japanese aesthetic theory of experience to examine gender as a felt experience of an aware or an affective quality of persons By treating gender as an affect Johnathan Charles Flowers argues that the experience of gendering and being gendered is a result of the affective perception of the organization of the body in line with cultural aesthetics embodied in Deweyan habit or Japanese kata broadly understood as culturally mediated transactions with the world On this view how the felt sense of identity aligns with the affective organization of society determines the nature of the possible social transactions between individuals As such this book intervenes in questions of personhood broadly and identity specifically by treating personhood itself as an affective sense In doing so this book demonstrates how questions of personhood and identity are themselves affective judgments By treating gender and other identities as aware this book advocates an expanded recognition of the how to be in the world through cultivating new ways of perceiving the affective organization of persons

Searle's Philosophy and Chinese Philosophy Bo Mou, 2008-06-30 This volume investigates how through critical engagement the philosophy of John Searle in the Western analytic tradition and some thoughts and strands in Chinese philosophy can jointly contribute to the common philosophical enterprise and shows how such comparative methodology of constructive engagement is important or even indispensable in philosophical inquiry The anthology includes Searle's keynote essay and 15 engaging pairs of essay reply dialogues each of which consists of one previously unpublished essay by some expert's and Searle's engaging reply and which are organized into four subjects respectively on mind language morality and meta philosophical methodological issues The anthology also includes the volume

Veidlinger, 2018-08-31 In this sweeping and ambitious intellectual history Daniel Veidlinger traces the affinity between Buddhist ideas and communications media back to the efflorescence of Buddhism in the Axial Age of the mid first millennium BCE He uses both communications theory and the idea of convergent evolution to show how Buddhism arose in the largely urban milieu of Axial Age northeastern India and spread rapidly along the transportation and trading nodes of the Silk Road where it appealed to merchants and traders from a variety of backgrounds Throughout he compares early phases of Buddhism with contemporary developments in which rapid changes in patterns of social interaction were also experienced and brought about by large scale urbanization and growth in communication and transportation In both cases such changes supported the expansive consciousness needed to allow Buddhism to germinate Veidlinger argues that Buddhist ideas tend to fare well in certain media environments through a careful analysis of communications used in these contexts he finds persuasive parallels with modern advances in communications technology that amplify the conditions and effects found along ancient trade routes From Indra's Net to Internet incorporates historical research as well as data collected using computer based analysis of user generated web content to demonstrate that robust communication networks which allow for relatively easy contact among a variety of people support a de centered understanding of the self greater compassion for others an appreciation of interdependence a universal outlook and a reduction in emphasis on the efficacy of ritual all of which lie at the heart of the Buddha's teachings The book's interdisciplinary approach should appeal to those interested in not only Buddhism media studies and history but also computer science cognitive science and cultural evolution Rhetoric, Cultural Studies, and Literacy J. Frederick Reynolds, 2013-11-05 This volume presents a representative cross section of the more than 200 papers presented at the 1994 conference of the Rhetoric Society of America The contributors reflect multi and interdisciplinary perspectives English speech communication philosophy rhetoric composition studies comparative literature and film and media studies Exploring the historical relationships and changing relationships between rhetoric cultural studies and literacy in the United States this text seeks answers to such questions as what constitutes literacy in a post modern high tech multi cultural society Encounter with Enlightenment Robert E. Carter, 2012-02-01 In Encounter with Enlightenment Robert E Carter puts forth the East and specifically Japan as a source of possible solutions to the world's social economic and environmental problems Not only is the book a sustained scholarly analysis of both the religious and philosophical roots of Japan's distinctive ethical approach to life but it also provides the Western reader with a context for understanding Eastern values values that although familiar to the West tend to be deemphasized Encounter with Enlightenment begins a horizontal fusion between East and West and establishes a common ground for mutual understanding and for working toward an ethical approach that could resolve some of the earth's difficulties Culture and Subjective Well-Being Edward Diener, Eunkook M. Suh, 2003-01-24 The question of what constitutes the good life has been pondered for millennia. Yet only in the last decades has the study of well-being become a scientific endeavor. This book is based on the idea that we can empirically study quality of life and make cross-society comparisons of subjective well-being (SWB). A potential problem in studying SWB across societies is that of cultural relativism: if societies have different values, the members of those societies will use different criteria in evaluating the success of their society. By examining, however, such aspects of SWB as whether people believe they are living correctly, whether they enjoy their lives, and whether others important to them believe they are living well, SWB can represent the degree to which people in a society are achieving the values they hold dear. The contributors analyze SWB in relation to money, age, gender, democracy, and other factors. Among the interesting findings is that although wealthy nations are on average happier than poor ones, people do not get happier as a wealthy nation grows wealthier.

Feminist Encounters with Confucius Mathew Foust, Sor-Hoon Tan, 2016-10-11 This work builds on earlier works which defend Confucianism against charges of sexism and present interpretations of Confucianism compatible with feminism, but contributors go beyond the much-discussed care ethics and common arguments of how ren (humaneness) can ground an egalitarian humanism that includes gender equality. Besides ethics and political philosophy topics, this volume includes discussions in other philosophical areas such as epistemology, metaphysics, and applied philosophy. Through the encounter of feminism and Confucius's perspectives, each contributor generates novel answers to the questions addressed. In some cases, authors raise new questions about the chosen topic, inadequacies in how it has been addressed in previous Confucian or feminist discourse, and/or challenges for either or both Confucianism and feminism. Handbook of College and University Teaching James E. Groccia, Mohammed A. T. Alsudairi, William Buskist, 2012-01-17 Enhance your teaching style with James E. Groccia's systemic and insightful seven-variable model using a truly international perspective. The need to understand learning and teaching from multiple cultural perspectives has become critically important in educating the next generation of college students. Using a unique global view, this comprehensive volume presents international perspectives on critical issues impacting teaching and learning in diverse higher education environments. Education experts from around the world share their perspectives on college and university teaching, identifying international differences and similarities. The chapters are organized around a model developed by James E. Groccia which focuses on seven interrelated variables that must be explored to develop a full perspective of college and university teaching and learning. These interrelated variables include teacher, learner, learning process, learning context, course content, instructional processes, and learning outcomes. Using this logical model, the contributors provide readers with a guide for systemic thinking about how to improve teaching and learning, curriculum development, and assessment. The Japanese Family Diana Adis Tahhan, 2014-06-27 This book explores how the relationship between child and parent develops in Japan from the earliest point in a child's life through the transition from moral significance and in some cases even supplies ethical resources for the self. If we leave this dimension of modern experience unaddressed, we may miss something of value in contemporary life. Combining European humanism, Anglophone pragmatism, and Asian traditions, Michel Puech pleads for an ethical turn in the way we understand and address technological issues in modern day society. Puech argues that the question of power is what needs to be reconsidered today. In doing so, he provides a three-tier distinction of power: power to modify the outer world (our first intention), technology (power over other humans), our enduring obsession (politics and domination), power over oneself (ethics and wisdom).
