Shape Of The Past:

Conflict in the Miracle Stories Evert-Jan Vledder, 1997-10-01 Matthew's Gospel is a witness to conflicting interests. The leaders of Israel are part of the so-called retainer class who pursue their own interests by promoting the interests of the Roman rulers. Jesus and the Matthaean community on the contrary act on behalf of the marginalized in society. Jesus challenges the underlying values of the leaders who, contrary to what is expected, do not forgive and act mercifully. The leaders try to resolve the conflict negatively by labelling Jesus as possessed by the devil. At the same time the conflict spirals onward; the Matthaean community is called to act in the interests of the marginalized. It is Vledder's special contribution to Matthaean study that he brings to light the underlying dynamics of this conflict in a stimulating sociological study. A Student's Introduction to English Grammar Rodney Huddleston, Geoffrey K. Pullum, Brett Reynolds, 2021-11-25 A new edition of a successful undergraduate textbook on contemporary international Standard English grammar based on Huddleston and Pullum's earlier award-winning work The Cambridge Grammar of the English Language 2002. The analyses defended there are outlined here more briefly in an engagingly accessible and informal style. Errors of the older tradition of English grammar are noted and corrected and the excesses of prescriptive usage manuals are firmly rebutted in specially highlighted notes that explain what older authorities have called incorrect and show why those authorities are mistaken. Intended for students in colleges or universities who have little or no background in grammar or linguistics, this teaching resource contains numerous exercises and online resources suitable for any course on the structure of English in either linguistics or English departments. A thoroughly modern undergraduate textbook rewritten in an easy-to-read conversational style with a minimum of technical and theoretical terminology.

Artificial Intelligence in Design '98 John S. Gero, Fay Sudweeks, 2012-12-06 The development of computational models of design founded on the artificial intelligence paradigm has provided an impetus for much of current design research. As artificial intelligence has matured and developed new approaches, so the impact of these new approaches on design research has been felt. This can be seen in the way concepts from cognitive science have found their way into artificial intelligence and hence into design research. And also in the way in which agent-based systems are being incorporated into design systems. In design research there is an increasing blurring between notions drawn from artificial intelligence and those drawn from cognitive science. Whereas a number of years ago the focus was largely on applying artificial intelligence to designing as an activity, thus treating designing as a form of problem solving, today we are seeing a much wider variety of conceptions of the role of artificial intelligence in helping to model and comprehend designing as a process. Thus we see papers in this volume which have as their focus the development or implementation of frameworks for artificial intelligence in design, attempting to determine a unique locus for these ideas. We see papers which attempt to find foundations for the development of tools based on the artificial intelligence paradigm; often the foundations come from cognitive studies of human designers.
