The Sharing Circle Theresa Meuse,2003 Matthew loves to play games with his friends and share his toys with them But most of all he loves to share the special treasures that remind him of his First Nations culture Perhaps his favourite treasure is the medicine pouch that his grandfather made especially for him This is where he keeps many of his other treasures

Sharing Circle includes seven children's stories about First Nations culture and spirituality practices. All seven stories: The Eagle Feather, The Dream Catcher, The Sacred Herbs, The Talking Circle, The Medicine Wheel, The Drum, and The Medicine Pouch explore First Nations cultural practices and teach children about Mi'kmaq beliefs and heritage. Researched and written by Mi'kmaq children's author Theresa Meuse and beautifully illustrated by Mi'kmaq illustrator Arthur Stevens, this book will engage and inform children of all ages.

Indigenous Cultures and Mental Health Counselling Suzanne L. Stewart, Roy Moodley, Ashley Hyatt, 2016-08-12. North America's Indigenous population is a vulnerable group with specific psychological and healing needs that are not widely met in the mental health care system. Indigenous peoples face certain historical, cultural, linguistic, and socioeconomic barriers to mental health care access that government health care organizations and social agencies must work to overcome. This volume examines ways Indigenous healing practices can complement Western psychological service to meet the needs of Indigenous peoples through traditional cultural concepts. Bringing together leading experts in the fields of Aboriginal mental health and psychology, it provides data and models of Indigenous cultural practices in psychology that are successful with Indigenous peoples. It considers Indigenous epistemologies in applied psychology and research methodology and informs government policy on mental health service for these populations.

Practising Community-Based Participatory Research Shauna MacKinnon, 2018-04-10 There is increasing pressure on university scholars to reach beyond the ivory tower and engage in collaborative research with communities But what does this actually mean What is community based participatory research CBPR and what does engagement look like This book presents stories about CBPR from past and current Manitoba Research Alliance projects in socially and economically marginalized communities Bringing together experienced researchers with new scholars and community practitioners the stories describe the impetus for the research projects how they came to be implemented and how CBPR is still being used to effect change within the community The projects ranging from engagement in public policy advocacy to learning from Elders in First Nations communities were selected to demonstrate the breadth of experiences of those involved and the many different methods used By providing space for researchers and their collaborators to share the stories behind their research this book offers valuable lessons and rich insights into the power and practice of CBPR Indigenous

Feminist Gikendaasowin (Knowledge) Tricia McGuire-Adams, 2020-11-20 This book presents knowledge from Indigenous women who enact decolonization and wellbeing through physical activity In sport physical activity and health disciplines there is a significant need for Indigenous women s theoretical and methodological perspectives While much research is published from a Western perspective on Indigenous peoples health sport and physical activity less is known from Indigenous feminist and community perspectives The chapters therefore inform the broader sociology of sport and Indigenous feminist fields on Indigenous cultural perspectives of physical activity Indigenous Methodologies, Research and Practices for

Sustainable Development Marcellus F. Mbah, Walter Leal Filho, Sandra Ajaps, 2022-10-21 This book states that whilst academic research has long been grounded on the idea of western or scientific epistemologies this often does not capture the uniqueness of Indigenous contexts and particularly as it relates to the achievement of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals SDGs The SDGs were announced in 2015 accompanied by 17 goals and 169 targets These goals are the means through which Agenda 2030 for sustainable development is to be pursued and realised over the next 15 years and the contributions of Indigenous peoples are essential to achieving these goals Indigenous peoples can be found in practically every region of the world living on ancestral homelands in major cities rainforests mountain regions desert plains the arctic and small Pacific Islands Their languages knowledges and values are rooted in the landscapes and natural resources within their territories However many Indigenous peoples are now minorities within their homelands and globally and there is a dearth of research based on Indigenous epistemologies and methodologies Furthermore academic research on Indigenous peoples is typically based on western lenses Thus the paucity of Indigenous methodologies within mainstream research discourses present challenges for implementing practical research designs and interpretations that can address epistemological distinctiveness within Indigenous communities There is therefore the need to articulate as well as bring to the nexus of research aimed at fostering sustainable development a decolonising perspective in research design and practice This is what this book wants to achieve The contributions critically reflect on Indigenous approaches to research design and implementation towards achieving the sustainable development goals as well as the associated challenges and opportunities

The contributions also advanced knowledge theory and practice of Indigenous methodologies for sustainable development

Mission without Conquest Willis Horst, Ute Paul, Frank Paul, 2015-07-14 Almost sixty years ago the Mennonite missionary team working in the Argentine Chaco decided to look for ways to be effective in their ministry while being faithful to Jesus lifestyle and teaching. They left behind paternalistic models and conquering methods and were liberated from the mindset of forming a denominational church. As a result they found an alternative missionary style of walking alongside those they worked with, giving priority to the integrity of the local people. Mission Without Conquest is a historical narrative of how the Toba Qom people of the Argentine Chaco followed Jesus' way from the time of their conversion until the formation of an autochthonous church. This book embodies a new way to approach the church's missionary task, a way that makes the mission of Jesus Christ the paradigm for Christian mission until his return.
