Shark Richard Ellis, 2012-04-17 The sharks ancient or modern real or imaginary have always been with us and will probably remain with us forever They appear not only in movies and literature but in countless permutations of size shape and materials permeating our daily lives with their silent menace In a sense humans live in a world replete with sharks not vice versa Thus Richard Ellis sets about chronicling and debunking the myths of sharks throughout history From 18th century art to the phenomena of JAWS the shark has remained the indomitable aggressor of the deep the last demon of humankind The image of the shark and the fear it inspires infiltrates our daily lives with its mythical power and strength But it is not man who should fear the shark Our need to dominate these predators is destroying them and their habitat Through hundreds of full color images Ellis proves the necessity of preserving these majestic creatures As curator of the Ft Lauderdale Museum of Art s exhibition entitled Shark debuting May 2012 Ellis adeptly turns these sleek efficient hunters from monsters of the deep into rare beautiful forces of nature

The key aim of this book is to explore the global conservation and management of sharks There has been a rapid decline in populations of many shark species while new science has emerged of the critical role they play in marine ecosystems However the authors show that conservation law and policy have been slow to develop with only a small number of iconic species being protected worldwide The increase in fishing impact primarily through shark finning and by catch has led to shark conservation receiving greater international attention in recent years The book explores our current knowledge and status of the law and science in relation to sharks with a particular focus on improving frameworks for their conservation and management Recent trends are analysed including shark finning bans that have been put in place in several countries the widening number of nations establishing shark sanctuaries and the growth of shark based tourism The efficacy of current listing processes for endangered species and fisheries regulations is also examined Tourism is explored as an alternative to fishing and the risks and impacts associated with this industry are analysed Contributors include leading authorities from universities and conservation organizations in North America Europe and Australia A common theme is to emphasise the importance of collaborative governance between various interest groups and the need for inter disciplinary research and management approaches that are necessary to address the decline in sharks
