Love Motherhood And The African Heritage The Legacy Of Flora Nwapa:

Love, Motherhood and the African Heritage Femi Nzegwu, 2001 Forty years after the restoration of independence in Africa following decades of European conquest and occupation of the continent there has been little positive impact on the quality of life of most Africans in virtually every sphere of social political economic or spiritual existence During the period African governments have failed to establish effective socio economic systems to counter the deleterious consequences of the occupation One such consequence has been the impact on women who prior to the occupation played a central role in the life of their societies The aftermath of European hegemony on the African scene has been the displacement marginalisation of the power position participation and contribution of African women in the social ordering and overall advancement of their society Unfortunately African governments through their policies have ensured that this crippling disequilibrium in society has become further entrenched This is a subject that has been of major concern to Flora Nwapa one of Africa's leading women novelists Through Nwapa's writings we examine the historical role which Igbo women exercised in their society the pivotal and highly revered role of motherhood as an all encompassing ideological framework of social ordering of the nation and the philosophical ethos which governed women's social cultural political economic and spiritual life the basis of which was the dual gender complementarity in place in society The study concludes by demonstrating that only through a return to these time honoured proven values of social co existence can Africa extricate itself from the present state of human privations

Readings from Reading Herbert Ekwe-Ekwe,2011

The essays here underscore Herbert Ekwe Ekwe s continuing optimism about the possibilities of Africans constructing post Berlin states as the launch pad to transform the topography of the African renaissance Readings from Reading is a timely publication coming on the eve of the historic January 2011 referendum in south Sudan in which the people of the region will choose to vote to restore their national independence or get stuck hopelessly in the Sudan the first of the Berlin states that Africans tragically inherited in January 1956 Ekwe Ekwe insists that the contemporary Africa state imposed on Africans by a band of European conqueror states and currently run by what the author describes as a shard of disreputable African regimes to exploit and despoil the continent s human and material resources cannot serve African interests The legacy as this study demonstrates has indeed been catastrophic The African overseers pushed the states into even deeper depths of genocidal and kakistocratic notoriety in the past 54 years as the grim examples of particularly Nigeria the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Sudan depressingly underscore 15 million Africans have been murdered by African led regimes in these states and elsewhere in Africa since the Igbo genocide of 1977 1970 This is an engaging incisive wide ranging and multidisciplinary discourse salient features that have come to define Ekwe Ekwe's groundbreaking scholarship of the past three decades. The author covers an assemblage of diverse topics and themes which include the Igbo genocide, the Jos massacres in central Nigeria, Umar Farouk Abdul Mutallab's failed attempt to blow up an incoming aircraft over Detroit on Christmas Day 2009, African presence in Britain, Robert Mugabe, Muammar Gaddafi, Obafemi Awolowo, Omar al Bashir, Charles Taylor, Olusegun Obasanjo, Ali Mazrui, Andrew Young, the G8 and Africa, Africa debt, African emigres, remittances to Africa, sub-Saharan Africa, reparations to Africans, African representation on the UN Security Council, African choices for the Nobel Peace Prize, Africa and the International Criminal Court, Nigeria, Cote d'Ivoire, Kenya, the Sudan, and the Congo, arms to Africa, arms ban on Africa. Finally, on the subject of the restoration of independence, the key connecting thread that links all the visitations, Ekwe Ekwe critically examines the contributions made variously on this cord by an impressive line up of some of the very best and brightest of African intellectuals: Achebe, Adichie, Césaire, Damas, Coltrane, Diop, Equiano, Ngugu, Okigbo, Senghor. The Oxford Encyclopedia of Women in World History, Bonnie G. Smith, 2008-01-23. The Encyclopedia of Women in World History captures the experiences of women throughout world history in a comprehensive 4 volume work. Although there has been extensive research on women in history by region, no text or reference work has comprehensively covered the role women have played throughout world history. The past thirty years have seen an explosion of research and effort to present the experiences and contributions of women not only in the Western world but across the globe. Historians have investigated women's daily lives in virtually every region and have researched the leadership roles women have filled across time and region. They have found and demonstrated that there is virtually no historical, social or demographic change in which women have not been involved and by which their lives have not been affected. The Oxford Encyclopedia of Women in World History benefits greatly from these efforts and experiences and illuminates how women worldwide have influenced and been influenced by these historical, social and demographic changes. The Encyclopedia contains over 1,250 signed articles arranged in an A-Z format for ease of use. The entries cover six main areas: biographies, geography and history, comparative culture and society, including adoption, abortion, performing arts, organizations and movements such as the Egyptian Uprising and the Paris Commune, women's and gender studies, and topics in world history that include slave trade, globalization and disease. With its rich and insightful entries by leading scholars and experts, this reference work is sure to be a valued go-to resource for scholars, college and high school students, and general readers alike. The African Book Publishing Record, 2003.
