Manifestations of Mana Paul van der Grijp, 2014 This book explores the role of mana in past and present configurations of chiefly power in the Pacific Chiefs are often seen as transitional figures between traditional tribal or feudal and modern forms of leadership the latter characterized by rationality and the nation state with its accompanying bureaucracy Today the political arena in the Pacific although occupied by presidents members of parliament and court justices is still ruled by chiefs supporting their authority by tradition including the notion of mana Mana may be defined as divine inspiration or energy that manifests itself in persons objects places and natural phenomena Polynesian chiefs have mana because of their descent from ancient gods Other key concepts such as asymmetrical ideology mythical constructions of social reality and social drama are elaborated and applied to a wide spectrum of ethnographic examples The configuration and reconfiguration of Tongan chieftaincy and kingship in this book are analyzed as an extended case study of the gradual and sometimes shock-like integration of a Polynesian culture into a global structure a nation state partly imposed from the outside missionarization colonization but also generated from within including state formation and the recent quest for democracy Together with other Polynesian examples this forms a relevant illustration of both continuity and change in the configuration of mana and chieftaincy in processes of globalization in the Pacific

The First Migration Atholl Anderson, 2016-05-12 Thousands of years ago migrants from South China began the journey that took their descendants through the Pacific to the southernmost islands of Polynesia Atholl Anderson's ground-breaking synthesis of research and tradition charts this epic journey of New Zealand's first human inhabitants Taken from the multi-award-winning Tangata Whenua An Illustrated History this Text weaves together evidence from numerous sources oral traditions converge where the uncanny becomes a critique and the monstrous mirrors the human While contentions swirl around the genre category this exploratory anthology is the first critical edited collection dedicated solely to ways of theorizing and analyzing Indigenous Horror literature The essays curated by scholar Naomi Simone Borwein ask readers to consider what Global Indigenous Horror is and to whom The volume opens with a preface by international bestselling horror writer Shane Hawk enrolled Cheyenne Arapaho Hidatsa and Potawatomi descent followed by an overview of Global Indigenous Horror trends aesthetics and approaches The carefully selected contributions explore Indigenous Horror literature and mixed media narratives worldwide unraveling the intricate dynamics between the local and global traditional and contemporary and human and monstrous Contributor chapters are grouped not by geographical or cultural variation but along a spectrum from a strong emphasis on ways of knowing to a critical inspection of Horror through Indigenous Gothic aesthetics across cultural boundaries and against and beyond nation states

Making Peoples James Belich, 2002-02-28 Now in paper This immensely readable book full of drama and humor as well as scholarship is a watershed in the writing of New Zealand history In making many new assertions and challenging many historical myths it seeks to reinterpret our approach to the past Given New Zealand's small population short history and great isolation the history of the archipelago has been saddled with a reputation for mundanity According to James Belich however it is just these characteristics that make New Zealand a historian's paradise a laboratory whose isolation size and recency is an advantage in which the grand themes of world history are often played out more rapidly more separately and therefore more discernably than elsewhere The first of two planned volumes Making Peoples begins with the Polynesian settlement and its development into the Maori tribes in the eleventh century It traces the great encounter between independent Maoridom and expanding Europe from 1642 to 1916 including the foundation of the Pakeha the neo Europeans of New Zealand between the 1830s and the 1880s It describes the forging of a neo Polynesia and a neo Britain and the traumatic interaction between them The author carefully examines the myths and realities that drove the colonialization process and suggests a new living version of one of the most critical and controversial documents in New Zealand's history the Treaty of Waitangi frequently described as New Zealand's Magna Carta The construction of peoples Maori and Pakeha is a recurring theme the response of each to the great shift from extractive to sustainable economics their relationship with their Hawaikis or ancestors with each other and with myth Essential reading for anyone interested in New Zealand history and in the history of new societies in general
