Ullman,2019-01-29 In an intriguing work based largely on new sources Richard H Ullman shows how the British government the politicians civil servants military and naval officers dealt with the problem of Russia during the critical period between the Bolshevik Revolution in November 1917 and Britain's de facto recognition of the Soviet government in March 1921. Volume 1 describes the tragic misunderstandings and desperate hopes of the British in the troubled year before the Armistice which stands as a watershed in the history of Anglo-Soviet policy. As diplomacy failed, British forces found themselves fighting not only in North Russia but in the Caucasus and on the frontiers of India. The second volume to be published later will cover the story to 1921. Dr Ullman's exciting portrayal of these events is a companion work to George Kennan's several volume study of the same period, Soviet American Relations 1917-1920. Creating a Chinese Harbin James H. Carter, 2019-06-30. James H. Carter outlines the birth of Chinese nationalism in an unlikely setting, the international city of Harbin. Planned and built by Russian railway engineers, the city rose quickly from the Manchurian plain, changing from a small fishing village to a modern city in less than a generation. Russian, Chinese, Korean, Polish, Jewish, French, and British residents filled this multiethnic city on the Sungari River. The Chinese took over Harbin after the October Revolution and ruled it from 1918 until the Japanese founded the puppet state of Manchukuo in 1932. In his account of the radical changes that this unique city experienced over a brief span of time, Carter examines the majority Chinese population and its developing Chinese identity in an urban area of fifty languages. Originally, Carter argues, its nascent nationalism defined itself against the foreign presence in the city while using foreign resources to modernize the area. Early versions of Chinese nationalism embraced both nation and state. By the late 1920s, the two strands had separated to such an extent that Chinese police fired on Chinese student protesters. This division eased the way for Japanese occupation; the Chinese state structure proved a fruitful source of administrative collaboration for the area's new rulers in the 1930s.
