students interested in urban problems The Economic Thought of William Petty Hugh Goodacre, 2018-05-11 William Petty 1623-1687 long recognised as a founding father of English political economy was actively involved in the military colonial administration of Ireland following its invasion by Oliver Cromwell and to the end of his days continued to devise schemes for securing England's continued domination of that country. It was in that context that he elaborated his economic ideas which consequently reflect the world of military bureaucratic officialdom, neo-feudalism and colonialism he served. This book shows that much of the theory and methodology in use within the economics discipline of today has its roots in the writings of Petty and his contemporaries rather than in the supposedly universalistic and enlightened ideals of Adam Smith a century later. Many of the fundamental ideas of today's development economics for example are shown to have been deployed by Petty explicitly for the purpose of furthering England's colonialist objectives while his pioneering writings on fiscal issues and national accounting theory were equally explicitly directed towards the raising of funds for England's predatory colonial and commercial wars. This book argues that exploring the historical roots of economic ideas and methods in this way is an essential aspect of assessing their appropriateness and analytical power today and that this is more relevant than ever. It will be of interest to advanced students and researchers in the history of economic thought, early modern economic history, development economics and economic geography Fifty Years of Regional Science Raymond Florax, David A.

Plane, 2013-04-17 This book contains the complete text of the special Golden Anniversary issue of the flagship journal of the Regional Science Association International, RSAI Papers in Regional Science Volume 83 Number 1 as well as the full text of Walter Isard's Presidential Address. The future near and far of regional science. Professor Isard originally delivered the speech in a special plenary session of the fiftieth North American Meetings of the Regional Science Association International. The session began with a ceremonial kickoff to the year-long celebration of the multidisciplinary field's first 50 years. At the ceremony held on the morning of Friday November 21, 2004 at the DoubleTree Hotel in Philadelphia we presented Walter Isard the founder of our multidisciplinary field as well as Antoine Bailly the President of the Regional Science Association International and David Boyce the Association's Archivist with commemorative first copies of the anniversary issue. This book entitled Fifty Years of Regional Science consists of a compendium of thought papers authored by a representative sampling of some of the field's leading scholars. For the special journal issue we originally titled the collection The Brightest of Dawns.

Selected Readings on Atomic Energy U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, 1958 Intercultural Economic Analysis Rongxing Guo, 2009-08-29 Since the end of the Cold War the study of intercultural relations has become one of the most popular topics in the field of global politics and economics. This book presents a methodological framework for the analysis of intercultural issues frequently misinterpreted by existing theories. The book uses a challenge and response theory of cultural development to examine the relationship between different natural disasters and threats and the developments of ancient civilizations. The spatial interaction of ancient civilizations is assessed and some theoretical patterns of intercultural influences are presented with a focus on the Chinese Egyptian Indus and Mesopotamian civilizations Using the development of China as a case study and on the basis of a simplified spatial model the optimal spatial structure and size of culture areas are mathematically solved and the political economy implications to the interactions between cultures differing in size are illustrated The book also examines various aspects of intercultural economic influences such as those of culture on international trade The empirical results suggest that high income trade partners are less sensitive than low income trade partners to the measures of cultural dissimilarity which block international trade The existing literature relating to the determinants of economic growth treats explanatory variables such as income inequality and cultural diversity separately This book investigates whether there are any conditions under which income inequality and cultural diversity could encourage economic growth and provides evidence from a broad panel of nations which reveals that economic growth is quite independent from the variables of inequality and cultural linguistic and religious diversity Finally this book provides suggestions for how cultural influences can benefit developing economies both large and small
