Making Design Theory Johan

Redstrom, 2017-09-01 A new approach to theory development for practice driven research proposing that theory is something made in and through design Tendencies toward academization of traditionally practice based fields have forced design to articulate itself as an academic discipline in theoretical terms In this book Johan Redstr m offers a new approach to theory development in design research one that is driven by practice experimentation and making Redstr m does not theorize from the outside but explores the idea that just as design research engages in the making of many different kinds of things theory might well be one of those things it is making Redstr m proposes that we consider theory not as stable and constant but as something unfolding something acted as much as articulated inherently fluid and transitional Redstr m describes three ways in which theory in particular formulating basic definitions is made through design the use of combinations of fluid terms to articulate issues the definition of more complex concepts through practice and combining sets of definitions made through design into programs These are the building blocks for creating conceptual structures to support design Design seems to thrive on the complexities arising from dichotomies form and function freedom and method art and science With his idea of transitional theory Redstr m departs from the traditional academic imperative to pick a side theory or practice art or science Doing so he opens up something like a design space for theory development within design research

The Metainterface

Christian Ulrik Andersen, Soren Bro Pold, 2023-10-31 How the interface has moved from the PC into cultural platforms as seen in a series of works of net art software art and electronic literature The computer interface is both omnipresent and invisible at once embedded in everyday objects and characterized by hidden exchanges of information between objects The interface has moved from office into culture with devices apps the cloud and data streams as new cultural platforms In The Metainterface Christian Ulrik Andersen and S ren Bro Pold examine the relationships between art and interfaces tracing the interface's disruption of everyday cultural practices They present a new interface paradigm of cloud services smartphones and data capture and examine how particular art forms including net art software art and electronic literature seek to reflect and explore this paradigm Andersen and Pold argue that despite attempts to make the interface disappear into smooth access and smart interaction it gradually resurfaces there is a metainterface to the displaced interface Art can help us see this the interface can be an important outlet for aesthetic critique Andersen and Pold describe the semantic capitalism of a metainterface industry that captures user behavior the metainterface industry's disruption of everyday urban life changing how the city is read inhabited and organized the ways that the material displacement of the cloud affects the experience of the interface and the potential of designing with an awareness of the language and grammar of interfaces
