Race and Retail Mia Bay, Ann Fabian, 2015-08-04 Race has long shaped shopping experiences for many Americans. Retail exchanges and establishments have made headlines as flashpoints for conflict not only between blacks and whites but also between whites, Mexicans, Asian Americans, and a wide variety of other ethnic groups who have at times found themselves unwelcome at white-owned businesses. Race and Retail documents the extent to which retail establishments both past and present have often catered to specific ethnic and racial groups. Using an interdisciplinary approach, the original essays collected here explore selling and buying practices of nonwhite populations around the world and the barriers that shape these habits, such as racial discrimination, food deserts, and gentrification. The contributors highlight more contemporary issues by raising questions about how race informs business owners' ideas about consumer demand, resulting in substandard quality and higher prices for minorities than in predominantly white neighborhoods. In a wide-ranging exploration of the subject, they also address revitalization and gentrification in South Korean and Latino neighborhoods in California, Arab and Turkish coffeehouses and hookah lounges in South Paterson, New Jersey, and tourist capoeira consumption in Brazil. Race and Retail illuminates the complex play of forces at work in racialized retail markets and the everyday impact of those forces on minority consumers. The essays demonstrate how past practice remains in force in subtle and not so subtle ways.

Brand Hollywood Paul Grainge, 2007-10-31 From the growth in merchandising and product placement to the rise of the movie franchise, branding has become central to the modern blockbuster economy. In a wide-ranging analysis focusing on companies such as Disney, Dolby, Paramount, New Line, and in particular Warner Bros., Brand Hollywood provides the first sustained examination of the will to brand in the contemporary movie business. Outlining changes in the marketing and media environment during the 1990s and 2000s, Paul Grainge explores how the logic of branding has propelled specific kinds of approach to the status and selling of film. Analyzing the practice of branding, the poetics of corporate logos, and the industrial politics surrounding the development of branded texts, properties, and spaces, including franchises ranging from Looney Tunes to Lord of the Rings and Harry Potter to The Matrix, Grainge considers the relation of branding to the emergent principle of total entertainment. Employing an interdisciplinary method drawn from film studies, cultural studies, and advertising and media studies, Brand Hollywood demonstrates the complexities of selling entertainment in the global media moment, providing a fresh and engaging perspective on branding's significance for commercial film and the industrial culture from which it is produced.

The Hustle Doug Merlino, 2010-12-21 The experiment was dreamed up by two fathers, one white, one black. What would happen if they mixed white players from an elite Seattle private school, famous for alumni such as Microsoft's Bill Gates, and black kids from the inner city on a basketball team? Wouldn't exposure to privilege give the black kids a chance at better opportunities? Wouldn't it open the eyes of the white kids to a different side of life? The 1986 season would be the laboratory. Out in the real world, hip hop was going mainstream. Larry Bird and Magic Johnson ruled the NBA, and Ronald Reagan was president In Seattle the team s season unfolded like a perfectly scripted sports movie the ragtag group of boys became friends and gelled together to win the league championship The experiment was deemed a success But was it How did crossing lines of class race and wealth affect the lives of these ten boys Two decades later Doug Merlino who played on the team returned to find his teammates His search ranges from a prison cell to a hedge fund office street corners to a shack in rural Oregon a Pentecostal church to the records of a brutal murder The result is a complex gripping and at times unsettling story An instant classic in the vein of Michael Apted s Up series The Hustle tells the stories of ten teammates set before a background of sweeping social and economic change capturing the ways race money and opportunity shape our lives A tale both personal and public The Hustle is the story a disparate group of men finding or not finding a place in America

Old and New Media after Katrina Diane Negra,2016-02-10 Ten years after Hurricane Katrina this thoughtful collection of essays reflects on the relationship between the disaster and a range of media forms The assessments here reveal how mainstream and independent media have responded sometimes innovatively sometimes conservatively to the political and social ruptures Katrina has come to represent The contributors explore how Hurricane Katrina is positioned at the intersection of numerous early twenty first century crisis narratives centralizing uncertainties about race class region government and public safety Looking closely at the organization of public memory of Katrina this collection provides a timely and intellectually fruitful assessment of the complex ways in which media forms and national events are hopelessly entangled

The Global Remapping of American Literature Paul Giles,2018-06-12 This book charts how the cartographies of American literature as an institutional category have varied radically across different times and places Arguing that American literature was consolidated as a distinctively nationalist entity only in the wake of the U S Civil War Paul Giles identifies this formation as extending until the beginning of the Reagan presidency in 1981 He contrasts this with the more amorphous boundaries of American culture in the eighteenth century and with ways in which conditions of globalization at the turn of the twenty first century have reconfigured the parameters of the subject In light of these fluctuating conceptions of space Giles suggests new ways of understanding the shifting territory of American literary history ranging from Cotton Mather to David Foster Wallace and from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow to Zora Neale Hurston Giles considers why European medievalism and Native American prehistory were crucial to classic nineteenth century authors such as Emerson Hawthorne and Melville He discusses how twentieth century technological innovations such as air travel affected representations of the national domain in the texts of F Scott Fitzgerald and Gertrude Stein And he analyzes how regional projections of the South and the Pacific Northwest helped to shape the work of writers such as William Gilmore Simms Jos Mart Elizabeth Bishop and William Gibson Bringing together literary analysis political history and cultural geography The Global Remapping of American Literature reorients the subject for the transnational era

Musician in the Museum Charles Fairchild,2021-01-14 In recent years popular music museums have been established in high profile locations in many of the presumed musical capitals of the world such as Los Angeles Liverpool Seattle Memphis and Nashville Most of these are defined by expansive experiential infrastructures centered around spectacular high tech displays of varying sizes and types Through over the top acts of display these museums influence and reflect the values and priorities in the public life of popular music This book examines the phenomenon of the popular music museum outside the typical and familiar frames of heritage and tourism Instead it looks at these institutions as markers of the broader entertainment industry in the era of its rise to global dominance It highlights the multiple manifestations of power as read across a range of institutions and material forms and discusses how this contributes to shaping the experience of popular culture Alice in Chains , Nirvana ,
