Shamara And Other Writings:

A History of Women's Writing in Russia Adele Marie Barker, Jehanne M. Gheith, 2002-07-11 A History of Women's Writing in Russia offers a comprehensive account of the lives and works of Russia's women writers Based on original and archival research this volume forces a re-examination of many of the traditionally held assumptions about Russian literature and women's role in the tradition In setting about the process of reintegrating women writers into the history of Russian literature contributors have addressed the often surprising contexts within which women's writing has been produced Chapters reveal a flourishing literary tradition where none was thought to exist They redraw the map defining Russia's literary periods they look at how Russia's women writers articulated their own experience and they reassess their relationship to the dominant male tradition The volume is supported by extensive reference features including a bibliography and guide to writers and their works

The Prophecy and Other Stories Drago Jancar, 2009-03-05 These newly collected short stories reveal a master at the top of his game Drago Jancar possesses an acute understanding of the human psyche enabling his stories to resonate beyond their particular milieu This collection features seven pieces drawn from four different collections that together present the struggle of individuals against powerful forces The characters try to make sense of a world of shifting borders and changing names that make the idea of a homeland either literal or figurative a dream rather than a reality

Mapping Postcommunist Cultures Vitaly Chernetsky, 2007-01-08 In Mapping Postcommunist Cultures Chernetsky argues that Russia and Ukraine exemplify the principal paradigms of post Soviet cultural development In Russia this has manifested itself in the subversive dismantling of the totalitarian linguistic regime and the foregrounding of previously marginalized subject positions In Ukraine work in these areas shows how the traumas of centuries of colonial oppression are being overcome through the carnivalesque decrowning of ideological dogmas and an affirmation of a new type of community most recently demonstrated in the peaceful Orange Revolution of 2004. Mapping Postcommunist Cultures also critiques the neglect of the former communist world in current models of cultural globalization. Materada Fulvio Tomizza, Russell Scott Valentino, 2000. Francesco Koslovic even his name straddles two cultures. And during the spring of 1955 in the village of Materada on the Istrian Peninsula his two worlds are coming apart. Materada the first volume of Fulvio Tomizza's celebrated Istrian Trilogy depicts the Istrian exodus of the hundreds of thousands who had once thrived in a rich ethnic mixture of Italians and Slavs. Complicating Koslovic's own departure is his attempt to keep the land that he and his brother have worked all their lives. A picture of a disappearing way of life, a tale of feud and displacement and imbued with the tastes, tales and songs of his native Istria, Koslovic's story is a testament to the intertwined ethnic roots of Balkan history. New Women's Writing in Russia, Central and Eastern Europe Rosalind Marsh, 2020-12-07. Since the late 1980s there has been an explosion of women's writing in Russia, Central and Eastern Europe greater than in any other cultural period. This book, which contains contributions by scholars and writers from many different countries, aims to address the gap in literature and debate that exists in relation to this subject. We investigate why women's writing has become so prominent in post-socialist countries and enquire whether writers regard their gender as a burden or on the contrary as empowering. We explore the relationship in contemporary women's writing between gender, class and nationality as well as issues of ethnicity and post-colonialism. Displacement and (Post)memory in Post-Soviet Women's Writing Marja Sorvari, 2022-04-22. The book examines prominent literary works from the past two decades by Russian women writers dealing with the Soviet past. It explores works such as Daniel Stein by Ludmilla Ulitskaya, The Time of Women by Elena Chizhova, Secondhand Time by Svetlana Alexievich and In Memory of Memory by Maria Stepanova and uncovers connecting thematic structures and features. Focusing on the concepts of displacement and postmemory, the book shows how these works have given voice to those on the margins of society and of great history whose resistance was often silent. In doing so, these women writers portray the everyday experiences and trauma of displaced women and girls during the second half of the twentieth century. This study offers new insights into the importance of these women writers' work in creating and preserving cultural memory in post-Soviet Russia.

All This Belongs to Me Petra Hulova, 2009-08-18. Alta Zaya, Nara Oyuna and Dolgorna, a mother, three sisters and the teenage daughter of one of the sisters, each tell their pieces of the family story, an epic fraught with secrets and betrayals. In All This Belongs to Me, the debut novel of Petra Hulova, All This Belongs to Me transports the reader from Mongolia's harsh, dusty steppe to the clamor and grime of the capital Ulaanbaatar, from nomadic herding and felt tents to brothels and prefabricated apartment blocks. With a filmic eye and a dead-on ear, Hulova vividly conveys the landscapes and lives of three generations of women. Two of the sisters born illegitimately of their mother's clandestine affairs with foreigners, one Chinese, one Russian.

the Soviet Union fell books were suddenly bought and sold as commodities Russia's first bestseller lists brought attention and prestige Even literary prizes turned to the market for legitimacy The rise of capitalism entirely transformed both the economics and the aesthetics of Russian literature By reconstructing the market's influence on everything from late Soviet paper shortages to the prose of neoimperialism Cultural Capitalism reveals Russian literature's exuberant hopes for and deep disappointments in capitalism Only a free market it was hoped could cure endemic book deficits and liberate literature from ideological constraints But as the market came to dominate literature it imposed an ideology of its own one that directed literary development for decades Through archival research original interviews and provocative readings of literary texts Bradley A Gorski immerses the reader in both the economic and aesthetic worlds of post Soviet Russian literature to reveal a cultural logic dominated by capitalism The Russian 1990s and early 2000s saw markets introduced adopted and debated at an accelerated pace all against the backdrop of a socialist past staging the polemics between capitalism and culture in high drama and sharp relief But the market forces at the center of the post Soviet transition are fundamental to cultural trends worldwide By revealing the complexities of Russia's story Cultural Capitalism mounts a critique that cuts across national borders and provides a new way of seeing culture in the post 1989 era worldwide The Soviet and Post-Soviet Review
