and ethnographic research Duffy sifts through the many racial class and gendered dimensions of Irish American identity by examining three distinct Irish cohorts in Greater New York assimilated descendants of nineteenth century immigrants white flighters who immigrated to postwar America and fled places like the Bronx for white suburbs like Yonkers in the 1960s and 1970s and the newer largely undocumented migrants who began to arrive in the 1990s What results is a portrait of Irishness as a dynamic complex force in the history of American racial consciousness pertinent not only to contemporary immigration debates but also to the larger questions of what it means to belong what it means to be American
