Shaping Urban Infrastructures Simon Guy, Simon Marvin, Will Medd, Timothy Moss, 2012-06-25 Cities can only exist because of the highly developed systems which underlie them ensuring that energy clean water etc are moved efficiently from producer to user and that waste is removed The urgent need to make the way that these services are provided more environmentally socially and economically sustainable means that these systems are in a state of transition from centralized to decentralized energy from passive to smart infrastructure from toll free to road pricing Such transitions are widely studied in the context of the influence of service providers users and regulators Until now however relatively little attention has been given to the growing role of intermediaries in these systems These consist of institutions and organizations acting in between production and consumption for example NGOs who develop green energy labelling schemes in collaboration with producers and regulators to guide the user consultants who advise businesses on how to save resources and travel agents who match users with providers Such intermediaries are in a position to shape the direction that technological transitions take and ultimately the sustainability of urban networks This book presents the first authoritative collection of research and analysis of the intermediaries that underpin the transitions that are taking place within urban infrastructures showing how intermediaries emerge the role that they play in key sectors including energy water waste and building and what impact they have on the governance of urban socio technical networks

The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Urban and Regional Futures Robert C. Brears, 2023-01-13 While urban settlements are the drivers of the global economy and centres of learning culture and innovation and nations rely on competitive dynamic regions for their economic social and environmental objectives urban centres and regions face a myriad of challenges that impact the ways in which people live and work create wealth and interact and connect with places Rapid urbanisation is resulting in urban sprawl rising emissions urban poverty and high unemployment rates housing affordability issues lack of urban investment low urban financial and governance capacities rising inequality and urban crimes environmental degradation increasing vulnerability to natural disasters and so forth At the regional level low employment low wage growth scarce financial resources climate change waste and pollution and rising urban peri urban competition etc are impacting the ability of regions to meet socio economic development goals while protecting biodiversity The response to these challenges has typically been the application of inadequate or piecemeal solutions often as a result of fragmented decision making and competing priorities with numerous economic environmental and social consequences In response there is a growing movement towards viewing cities and regions as complex and sociotechnical in nature with people and communities interacting with one another and with objects such as roads buildings transport links etc within a range of urban and regional settings or contexts This comprehensive MRW will provide readers with expert interdisciplinary knowledge on how urban centres and regions in locations of varying climates lifestyles income levels and stages development are creating synergies and reducing trade offs in the development of resilient resource efficient environmentally friendly liveable socially equitable integrated and technology enabled centres and regions

How Ideas Shape Urban Political Development Richardson

Dilworth, Timothy P. R. Weaver, 2020-05-15 A collection of international case studies that demonstrate the importance of ideas to urban political development Ideas interests and institutions are the holy trinity of the study of politics Of the three ideas are arguably the hardest with which to grapple and despite a generally broad agreement concerning their fundamental importance the most often neglected Nowhere is this more evident than in the study of urban politics and urban political development The essays in How Ideas Shape Urban Political Development argue that ideas have been the real drivers behind urban political development and offer as evidence national and international examples some unique to specific cities regions and countries and some of global impact Within the United States contributors examine the idea of blight and how it became a powerful metaphor in city planning the identification of racially defined spaces especially black cities and city neighborhoods as specific targets of neoliberal disciplinary practices the paradox of members of Congress who were active supporters of civil rights legislation in the 1950s and 1960s but enjoyed the support of big city political machines that were hardly liberal when it came to questions of race in their home districts and the intersection of national education policy local school politics and the politics of immigration Essays compare the ways in which national urban policies have taken different shapes in countries similar to the United States namely Canada and the United Kingdom The volume also presents case studies of city based political development in Chile China India and Africa areas of the world that have experienced a more recent form of urbanization that feature deep and intimate ties and similarities to urban political development in the Global North but which have occurred on a broader scale Contributors Daniel Bland Debjani Bhattacharyya Robert Henry Cox Richardson Dilworth Jason Hackworth Marcus Anthony Hunter William Hurst Sally Ford Lawton Thomas Ogorzalek Eleonora Pasotti Joel Rast Douglas S Reed Mara Sidney Lester K Spence Vanessa Watson Timothy P R Weaver Amy Widestrom

Urban Planet Thomas Elmqvist, Xuemei Bai, Niki Frantzeskaki, Corrie Griffith, David Maddox, Timon McPhearson, Susan Parnell, Patricia Romero-Lankao, David Simon, Mark Watkins, 2018-04-26 Global urbanization promises better services stronger economies and more connections it also carries risks and unforeseeable consequences To deepen our understanding of this complex process and its importance for global sustainability we need to build interdisciplinary knowledge around a systems approach Urban Planet takes an integrative look at our urban environment bringing together scholars from a diverse range of disciplines from sociology and political science to evolutionary biology geography economics and engineering It includes the perspectives of often neglected voices architects journalists artists and activists The book provides a much needed cross scale perspective connecting challenges and solutions on a local scale with drivers and policy frameworks on a regional and global scale The authors argue that to overcome the major challenges we are facing we must embark on a large scale reinvention of how we live together grounded in inclusiveness and sustainability This title is also available Open Access
