Modern Jewish Literatures Sheila E. Jelen,Michael P. Kramer,L. Scott Lerner,2011-06-06 Is there such a thing as a distinctive Jewish literature While definitions have been offered none has been universally accepted Modern Jewish literature lacks the basic markers of national literatures it has neither a common geography nor a shared language though works in Hebrew or Yiddish are almost certainly included and the field is so diverse that it cannot be contained within the bounds of one literary category Each of the fifteen essays collected in Modern Jewish Literatures takes on the above question by describing a movement across boundaries between languages cultures genres or spaces Works in Hebrew and Yiddish are amply represented but works in English French German Italian Ladino and Russian are also considered Topics range from the poetry of the Israeli nationalist Natan Alterman to the Russian poet Osip Mandelstam from turn of the century Ottoman Jewish journalism to wire recorded Holocaust testimonies from the intellectual salons of late eighteenth century Berlin to the shelves of a Jewish bookstore in twentieth century Los Angeles The literary world described in Modern Jewish Literatures is demarcated chronologically by the Enlightenment the Haskalah and the French Revolution on one end and the fiftieth anniversary of the State of Israel on the other The particular terms of the encounter between a Jewish past and present for modern Jews has varied greatly by continent country or village by language and by social standing among other things What unites the subjects of these studies is not a common ethnic religious or cultural history but rather a shared endeavor to use literary production and writing in general as the laboratory in which to explore and represent Jewish experience in the modern world Fraser's Magazine, 1865 Essays in the Study of Folk-Songs (1886) Evelyn Countess Martinengo-Cesaresco, 2020-08-15 Reproduction of the original Essays in the Study of Folk Songs 1886 by Evelyn Countess Martinengo Cesaresco Books, People, and Military Thought Andrea Guidi, 2020-06-22 How did the evolution of new gunpowder weapons change the nature structure and composition of the Florentine militias during the first decades of the sixteenth century Through an examination of little known and unpublished sources this book provides a comparative exploration of two Florentine republican experiments with a peasant militia one promoted and created by Niccol Machiavelli 1506 12 and a later one 1527 30 Using this comparison as the basis for a new reading of Machiavelli's Art of War which drew on the author's experience with the militia the book then investigates the relationship between the circulation and reception of Machiavelli's influential work changing conceptions of militia and the formation of new cultures of warfare in Europe in the sixteenth century
