Molecules of Nature Paul F. Torrence, 2017-12-13 Molecules of nature are created by living organisms in their quest to survive and thrive in Earth's challenging environments This age's old evolutionary struggle has produced an immense library of chemicals from which humans have selected invaluable therapeutics critical to modern medicine Natural products presently provide half of all prescription medications and 70% of all cancer drugs The success of continued drug development from natural products depends upon the diversity of molecules of nature which in turn depends upon biodiversity Unfortunately human caused damage to the environment from pollution to habitat loss to overexploitation of resources is causing unprecedented ecological damage and death of species a mass extinction event Unless this biotic crisis is obviated humanity will lose a primary source of future novel medicines This book assembles a powerful argument for nature's critical role in providing medicines for humanity and how that irreplaceable service is threatened by the extinction crisis A sampling of the molecules of nature employed in modern medicine reads like a catalog of biodiversity For example one of the most prescribed drugs in the United States is lisinopril which controls high blood pressure Lisinopril originated from the venom of a deadly viper from the Amazonian forests A denizen of US southwestern deserts provided a therapeutic for type II diabetes The ancient horseshoe crab of the US Atlantic coast enables a critical test for deadly endotoxins in medical products of all kinds Once a diagnosis of acute lymphocytic leukemia in children was a death sentence A tropical flower from Madagascar provided two natural products that changed a 90% fatality rate to a 90% cure rate The Pacific Yew tree from the US northwest was discovered to contain the potent anticancer agent Taxol now vital in the treatment of breast and ovarian cancers and Kaposi's sarcoma This book tells the fascinating story of these and other medicines It also summarizes some of the driving forces of the Sixth Mass Extinction and shows how it threatens at least half of the planet's species with extinction We rightly ask What will be the future of medicine without the contribution of millions of species How many treatments for disease will be forever lost What cures are we asking future generations to forgo As we willy nilly extinguish the future of one organism after another together with all the knowledge they hold we are like the looters of the Great Library of Alexandria The final chapter challenges readers to pursue a different outcome By uniting our efforts we can still preserve many of the remaining species on our blue green planet and the invaluable gifts they offer Learn to Live Through Cancer Stewart B. Steven N. Austad, 2023-08-15 Stories of long lived animal species from thousand year old tubeworms to 400 year old sharks and what they might teach us about human health and longevity Opossums in the wild don t make it to the age of three our pet cats can live for a decade and a half cicadas live for seventeen years spending most of them underground Whales however can live for two centuries and tubeworms for several millennia Meanwhile human life expectancy tops out around the mid eighties with some outliers living past 100 or even 110 Is there anything humans can learn from the exceptional longevity of some animals in the wild In Methuselah s Zoo Steven Austad tells the stories of some extraordinary animals considering why for example animal species that fly live longer than earthbound species and why animals found in the ocean live longest of all. Austad, the leading authority on longevity in animals, argues that the best way we will learn from these long-lived animals is by studying them in the wild. Accordingly, he proceeds habitat by habitat, examining animals that spend most of their lives in the air (comparing insects, birds, and bats), animals that live on and under the ground (from mole rats to elephants), and animals that live in the sea (including quahogs, carp, and dolphins). Humans have dramatically increased their lifespan with only a limited increase in healthspan; we're more and more prone to diseases as we grow older. By contrast, these species have successfully avoided both environmental hazards and the depredations of aging. Can we be more like them?

Natural Causes Dan Hurley, 2007-12-26 A riveting work of investigative journalism that charts the rise of the dietary supplement craze and reveals the dangerous and sometimes deadly side of these highly popular and completely unregulated products Over 60 percent of Americans buy and take herbal and dietary supplements for all sorts of reasons to prevent illness vitamin C to ease depression St John's wort to aid weight loss ephedra to boost the memory ginkgo biloba and even to cure cancer shark cartilage bloodroot despite the fact that few of these natural supplements have been proven to be safe or effective The vitamin and herbal supplement industry generates over 20 billion a year by selling products that promise to cure or fix but are produced and marketed essentially without oversight And while the media has been quick to sensationalize the benefits of supplements few have taken a hard look at the dangers posed by many of the remedies flooding the market today Award winning journalist Dan Hurley breaks the silence for the first time in Natural Causes From the snake oil salesmen of the early twentieth century to rise of the health food movement in the sixties and seventies Hurley charts the remarkable growth of an industry built largely on fraud and reveals the backroom politics that led to the passage of the Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act of 1994 which effectively freed the industry from FDA oversight In unprecedented detail he shows how supplement manufacturers have concealed the truth about dozens of untested treatments and the shocking rise in deaths disfigurements and life threatening injuries caused by products deceptively promoted as safe and natural Most importantly he provides a telling look at why in an age of unprecedented scientific advancement we continue to buy and believe in remedies for which little evidence exists and why the supplements we take to promote our health may be doing far more harm than good As Hurley shows the dietary supplement craze may be one of the greatest swindles ever perpetrated on the American public one that feeds billions of dollars each year into the pockets of lobbyists politicians and any charlatan who wants to slap a label on a bottle and tout it as the next big natural cure Blending hard facts with spellbinding personal stories Natural Causes is a must read for anyone who has ever popped a multivitamin
