Abstract—The ability of a system to detect and respond to changes in its environment is a critical component of its overall performance. This paper presents a novel approach to detecting and responding to changes in the environment, based on the use of a fuzzy logic-based system. The system is designed to detect changes in the environment by monitoring the output of a set of sensors. When a change is detected, the system responds by adjusting the output of the sensors. This approach is shown to be effective in detecting and responding to changes in the environment, and is compared to other approaches in the literature.
