Lying Sissela Bok, 2011-04-27 Is it ever all right to lie A philosopher looks at lying and deception in public and private life in government medicine law academia journalism in the family and between friends Lying is a penetrating and thoughtful examination of one of the most pervasive yet little discussed aspects of our public and private lives Beginning with the moral questions raised about lying since antiquity Sissela Bok takes up the justifications offered for all kinds of lies white lies lies to the sick and dying lies of parents to children lies to enemies lies to protect clients and peers The consequences of such lies are then explored through a number of concrete situations in which people are involved either as liars or as the victims of a lie

Lying and Deception Thomas L. Carson, 2010-04-29 Thomas Carson offers the most comprehensive and up to date investigation of moral and conceptual questions about lying and deception Part I addresses conceptual questions and offers definitions of lying deception and related concepts such as withholding information keeping someone in the dark and half truths Part II deals with questions in ethical theory Carson argues that standard debates about lying and deception between act utilitarians and their critics are inconclusive because they rest on appeals to disputed moral intuitions He defends a version of the golden rule and a theory of moral reasoning His theory implies that there is a moral presumption against lying and deception that causes harm a presumption at least as strong as that endorsed by act utilitarianism He uses this theory to justify his claims about the issues he addresses in Part III deception and withholding information in sales deception in advertising bluffing in negotiations the duties of professionals to inform clients lying and deception by leaders as a pretext for fighting wars and lying and deception about history with special attention to the Holocaust and cases of distorting the historical record by telling half truths The book concludes with a qualified defence of the view that honesty is a virtue
