Stren, Richard Stren, 2000-01-01 Cities are a locus of human diversity where people with varying degrees of wealth and status share an association within a particular urban boundary Despite the common geography sharp social divisions characterize many cities High levels of urban violence bear witness to the difficult challenge of creating socially cohesive and inclusive cities The devastated inner cities of many large American urban centres exemplify the failure of urban development With an enlightened democratic approach to policy reform however cities can achieve social sustainability Some cities have been more successful than others in creating environments conducive to the cohabitation of a diverse population In this collection of original essays case studies of ten cities Montreal and Toronto in Canada Miami and Baltimore in the United States Geneva and Rotterdam in Europe S o Paulo and San Salvador in South America and Nairobi and Cape Town in South Africa are presented and analysed in terms of social sustainability The volume as a whole looks at the policies institutions and planning and social processes that can have the effect of integrating diverse groups and cultural practices in a just and equitable fashion The authors conclude that policies conducive to social sustainability should among other things seek to promote fiscal equalization weave communities within the metropolis into a cohesive whole and ideally provide transport systems that ensure equal access to public services and workplaces all within the framework of an open and democratic local governance structure

New State Spaces Neil Brenner, 2004-09-10 In this synthetic interdisciplinary work Neil Brenner develops a new interpretation of the transformation of statehood under contemporary globalizing capitalism Whereas most analysts of the emergent post Westphalian world order have focused on supranational and national institutional realignments New State Spaces shows that strategic subnational spaces such as cities and city regions represent essential arenas in which states are being transformed Brenner traces the transformation of urban governance in western Europe during the last four decades and on this basis argues that inherited geographies of state power are being fundamentally rescaled Through a combination of theory construction historical analysis and cross national case studies of urban policy change New State Spaces provides an innovative analysis of the new formations of state power that are currently emerging This is a mature and sophisticated analysis by a major young scholar

Innovation and Creativity in Late Medieval and Early Modern European Cities Karel Davids, Bert De Munck, 2016-05-23 Late medieval and early modern cities are often depicted as cradles of artistic creativity and hotbeds of new material culture Cities in renaissance Italy and in seventeenth and eighteenth century northwestern Europe are the most obvious cases in point But how did this come about Why did cities rather than rural environments produce new artistic genres new products and new techniques How did pre industrial cities evolve into centres of innovation and creativity As the most urbanized regions of continental Europe in this period Italy and the Low Countries provide a rich source of case studies as the contributors to this volume demonstrate They set out to examine the relationship between institutional arrangements and regulatory mechanisms such as citizenship and guild rules and innovation and creativity in late medieval and early modern cities They analyze whether in what context and why regulation or deregulation influenced innovation and creativity and what the impact was of long term changes in the political and economic sphere
