Shared Print Repositories Karen Fischer, Faye Chadwell, 2015-09-07 The chapters in this book address the growing endeavours of shared print repositories and programs in academic libraries representing a global perspective with authors from Canada Australia Great Britain and the United States This book illustrates the complicated processes and challenges of coordinating selection determining storage agreements distributed or shared ownership concerns business models and a host of collection maintenance issues These efforts entail immense collaboration regardless of the size of the project Luckily librarians are good at collaboration but not always good at forging ahead into an uncertain future with regard to print collections As echoed by authors in this book the future is indeed uncertain but undoubtedly libraries who partner together to address print archiving dilemmas will be better prepared for whatever the future holds This book was originally published as a special issue of Collection Management social and economic factors that have shaped academic culture and buttressed its quietly efficient maintenance of racially discriminatory practices The American system of higher education is often regarded as the best in the world Smith Altbach and Lomotey have edited a volume that implicitly asks how much better still it could be if it embraced people of color and provided them with a supportive and nurturing environment one which encouraged them to reach their fullest creative and intellectual potential Indeed this will probably be the most significant challenge that the academy faces in the twenty first century William B Harvey Vice President and Director Office of Minorities in Higher Education American Council on Education Washington D C Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress,2007 Journal of the Common Council of the City of Detroit ,1886 Statutes of the United States of America Passed at the ...
