Levkoff,2006-06-02 Improve Service Delivery with New Evidence Based Guidelines Geared to improve service delivery in the care of older adults this new and more authoritative approach to practice and management is supported by the latest evidence based guidelines from the leading experts in the field For the first time behavioral health care providers can gain access to a more reliable source for implementing and improving service delivery protocols and practices This new guide applies evidence based criteria to the following patient care and management needs to help you Select an Evidence Based Practice EBP Assess Feasibility Manage Quality Create a Culturally Grounded Practice Assess and Treat Depression Anxiety and Substance Use Disorders Assess and Treat Dementia and Schizophrenia Review by Service Delivery Process Review within Special Settings Create More Sustainable Services Written primarily for program administrators and clinical supervisors health care professionals in mental health and geriatric services and teachers and students in the field of geriatric health care much of the timely information contained in this book can be used as a reference for evidence based geriatric behavioral health by people who work with elderly clients with mental health needs      Gerontological Social Work in Small Towns and Rural Communities Lenard W Kaye, Sandra Butler, 2012-10-12 Learn the skills you need to work with geriatric populations in rural areas Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities provides a range of intervention and community skills aimed precisely at the needs of rural elders This book fills a gap in the literature by focusing on the specific practice concerns for social workers assisting older adults in rural areas including the aging experience social worker skills professional functions working with special populations and health and long term care concerns This valuable resource will benefit social workers gerontologists allied health professionals in rural areas health and human services administrators and managers Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities explores the challenges social workers need to overcome when working with the elder community in rural areas This book s significance to social workers will only increase as more adults choose to live and grow old away from the cities Experts in the field suggest strategies to overcome barriers in planning and providing services such as a longer distance for the elderly to travel to use social service centers a narrower range of available services in the local area increased poverty levels for the elderly a stronger dependency by elderly on family rather than public assistance This book is divided into five sections Rurality and Aging introduces the concept of rurality and examines the demographics of aging from a rural perspective Practice Dimensions of Social Work with Rural Elders includes clinical practice models intervention and advocacy techniques program planning and marketing approaches Special Populations gives attention to four special population groups indigenous elders African American older adults elderly Latinos and disabled elders Special Issues Pertaining to Rural Elders covers five essential issues for rural gerontological social workers health promotion older workers and retirement preparation aging in place specialized housing and ethical practice Training and Policy Recommendations future training and education recommendations for social workers are explored as well as service capacity building the aging network and the future of long term care While a variety of theoretical perspectives are explored in Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities the book s empowerment orientation and strengths based approach will enhance your abilities to improve quality of life for elderly individuals in rural communities Each chapter contains a comprehensive review of the literature on the subject it addresses and several chapters include tables and graphs to further establish their revealing empirical findings An appendix provides additional sources to turn to for more information      Aging in Rural Places Elaine Jurkowski, 2014-09-08 Research documents that rural elders are poorer live in less adequate housing and have far fewer health and service options available to them than their urban counterparts yet there is a critical lack of current and detailed information on the problems facing rural elders and on the professional practices that serve this population This text fills this gap by introducing readers to rural areas and their residents and discussing the issues programs and policies designed to meet their needs Through a multidisciplinary lens it examines and defines specific competencies required for successful work with older adults and their families in these communities The text presents a research driven competency based approach for the health and human service professionals who work with older rural residents It discusses both the problems facing older adults and their families and evidence based solutions regarding policy and best practices Key issues examined include health and wellness transportation housing long term care income employment and retirement along with the needs of special populations ethnic minorities immigrants and the LGBT population Case examples reinforce an interdisciplinary model that addresses practice with rural elders that encompasses professional competencies values and ethics and the roles of a spectrum of health and human service professionals The text also examines current policies affecting health and social services to rural elders and recommendations for policy change to build an effective health and human service workforce in rural communities In addition the text provides discussion questions PowerPoint slides a test question bank and suggested activities and exercises Key Features Fills a vacuum regarding information on health and social services for rural elders Provides current and comprehensive knowledge about issues besetting this population and programs and policies designed to meet their needs Examines and defines specific competencies required for effective health and social services Based on a research driven competency based interdisciplinary approach to policy and best practice

Delivering Home-Based Services Susan F. Allen, Elizabeth M. Tracy, 2009-08-24 Service providers are increasingly called upon to serve clients at home a setting even a seasoned professional can find difficult to negotiate From monitoring the health of older populations to managing paroled offenders preventing child abuse and reunifying families home based services require models that ensure positive outcomes and address the ethical dilemmas that might arise in such sensitive contexts The contributors to this volume are national experts in diverse fields of social work practice policy and research Treating the home as an ecological setting that guides human development and family interaction they present rationales for and overviews of evidence based models across an array of populations and fields of practice Part 1 provides historical background and contemporary applications for home based services highlighting ethical administrative and supervision issues and summarizing the social policies that shape service delivery Part 2 addresses home based practice in such fields as child and adult mental health school social work and hospice care detailing the particular population being treated the policy and agency context theories and empirical data and practice guidelines Part 3 the editors present a unifying framework and suggest future directions for home based social work

Access To Care and Factors That Impact Access, Patients as Partners In Care and Changing Roles of Health Providers Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld, 2011-10-08 Part of the Research in the Sociology of Health Care series this title deals with both macro level system issues and micro level issues involving access to care factors that impact access patients as partners in care and changing roles of health providers

Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging Barbara Berkman, 2006-02-09 The Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging is the first reference to combine the fields of health care aging and social work in a single authoritative volume These areas are too often treated as discrete entities while the reality is that all social workers deal with issues in health and aging on a daily basis regardless of practice specialization As the baby boomers age the impact on practice in health and aging will be dramatic and social workers need more specialized knowledge about aging health care and the resources available to best serve older adults and their families The volume s 102 original chapters and 13 overviews written by the most experienced and prominent gerontological health care scholars in the United States and across the world provide social work practitioners and educators with up to date knowledge of evidence based practice guidelines for effectively assessing and treating older adults and their families new models for intervention in both community based practice and institutional care and knowledge of significant policy and research issues in health and aging A truly monumental resource this handbook represents the best research on health and aging available to social workers today Evidence-Based Adjunctive Treatments William O'Donohue,Nicholas A. Cummings,2011-04-28

Adjunctive treatments in which patients are provided additional modalities that can assist in their behavior change or the maintenance of their behavior change i e telehealth psychoeducation consumer driven treatment planning have a useful role in addressing problems that can t be solved by face to face meetings The adjunctive therapies covered in this book are all based on improving patient s self management of their problems or the factors that exacerbate their problems The book is broadly organized into two sections The first gives a broad overview of the major adjunctive modalities and the second concentrates on a systematic description of their role in the treatment of a number of special populations while providing practical suggestions for the timing and coordination for the use of the adjunctive therapies discussed in the book
