Canadian Books in Print ,1998 Fiscal and Monetary Policies in Developing Countries Rashed Al Mahmud Titumir,2021-12-23 The COVID 19 crisis has fractured the pre existing structural rigidities and institutional fragilities in the economies of developing countries more than ever necessitating a rethinking of fiscal and monetary policies the main vehicles for relief recovery and reconstruction This book examines the barriers to transformation in developing countries in the wake of the pandemic and analyses the paths to recovery based on an economic policymaking agenda It juxtaposes fiscal and monetary policies and state building from pre and post colonial periods to the present day context It employs an interdisciplinary approach and ventures beyond the well rehearsed tendency to explain the state of developing countries by considering the experiences of advanced economies The book utilises data on three levels the aggregate level using world data the single country context with case studies and a cross country assessment for comparative analysis Further the book critically assesses the relevance of different schools of thought and provides nuanced thought provoking theoretical apparatuses applicable to developing countries as well as allowing the reader to undertake a country specific analysis through the detailed historical country case studies undertaken in each chapter Each chapter has a detailed and separate theoretical and empirical section for the ease of understanding of the key propositions in the book The book will find an audience among scholars and researchers alike who wish to gain a deeper understanding of the formulation of fiscal and monetary policies specifically in developing countries For policymakers and policy advocates the book will serve as the groundwork for monetary and fiscal policies in the context of developing countries providing more relevant instruments for transformational pathways

Canadiana, 1986 Monographic Series Library of Congress, 1981 High-Value Natural Resources and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Pivi Lujala, 2012-03-29

For most post conflict countries the transition to peace is daunting In countries with high value natural resources including oil gas diamonds other minerals and timber the stakes are unusually high and peacebuilding is especially challenging Resource rich post conflict countries face both unique problems and opportunities They enter peacebuilding with an advantage that distinguishes them from other war torn societies access to natural resources that can yield substantial revenues for alleviating poverty compensating victims creating jobs and rebuilding the country and the economy Evidence shows however that this opportunity is often wasted Resource rich countries do not have a better record in sustaining peace In fact resource related conflicts are more likely to relapse Focusing on the relationship between high value natural resources and peacebuilding in post conflict settings this book identifies opportunities and strategies for converting resource revenues to a peaceful future Its thirty chapters draw on the experiences of forty one researchers and practitioners as well as the broader literature and cover a range of key issues including resource extraction revenue sharing and allocation and institution building The book provides a concise theoretical and practical framework that policy makers researchers practitioners and students can use to understand and address the complex interplay between the management of high value resources and peace High Value Natural Resources and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative led by the Environmental Law Institute ELI the United Nations Environment Programme UNEP the University of Tokyo and McGill University to identify and analyze lessons in natural resource management and post conflict peacebuilding The project has generated six edited books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in the series address land water livelihoods assessing and restoring natural resources and governance
