Rural Tradition:

Body and Tradition in Nineteenth-century France William Pooley, 2019 The moorlands of Gascony are often considered one of the most dramatic examples of top down rural modernization in nineteenth century Europe From an area of open moors they were transformed in one generation into the largest man made forest in Europe Body and Tradition in Nineteenth Century France explores how these changes were experienced and negotiated by the people who lived there drawing on the immense ethnographic archive of Felix Arnaudin 1844 1921 The study places the songs stories and everyday speech that Arnaudin collected as well as the photographs he took in the everyday lives of agricultural workers and artisans It argues that the changes were understood as a gradual revolution in bodily experiences as men and women forged new working habits new sexual relations and new ways of conceiving of their own bodies Rather than merely presenting a story of top down reform this is an account of the flexibility and creativity of the cultural traditions of the working population William G Pooley tells the story of the folklorist Arnaudin and the men and women whose cultural traditions he recorded then uncovers the work carried out by Arnaudin to explore everyday speech about the body stories of werewolves and shapeshifters tales of animal cunning and exploitation and songs about love and courtship The volume focuses on the lives of a handful of the most talented storytellers and singers Arnaudin encountered showing how their cultural choices reflect wider patterns of behaviour in the region and across rural Europe Cultural Heritages as Reflexive Traditions U. Kockel, M. Nic Craith, Máiréad Nic Craith, 2006-12-08 Drawing on anthropological fieldwork this book presents case studies illustrating the re conceptualization of heritages and traditions in selected locations in Africa Asia Australia and Europe The authors review the importance of oral traditions as markers of identity and consider competing narratives of heritage in postcolonial societies The Invention of Tradition Eric Hobsbawm, Terence Ranger, 2012-03-26 Many of the traditions which we think of as very ancient in their origins were not in fact sanctioned by long usage over the centuries but were invented comparatively recently This book explores examples of this process of invention the creation of Welsh and Scottish national culture the elaboration of British royal rituals in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the origins of imperial rituals in British India and Africa and the attempts by radical movements to develop counter traditions of their own It addresses the complex interaction of past and present bringing together historians and anthropologists in a fascinating study of ritual and symbolism which poses new questions for the understanding of our history A Companion to the Classical Tradition Craig W. Kallendorf, 2008-04-15 A Companion to the Classical Tradition accommodates the pressing need for an up to date introduction and overview of the growing field of reception studies A comprehensive introduction and overview of the classical tradition the interpretation of classical texts in later centuries Comprises 26 newly commissioned essays from an international team of experts Divided into three sections a chronological survey a geographical survey and a section illustrating the connections between the classical tradition and contemporary theory The Defence of Tradition in

Brazilian Popular Music Sean Stroud, 2016-03-23 Sean Stroud examines how and why Música Popular Brasileira MPB has come to have such a high status and why the musical tradition including MPB within Brazil has been defended with such vigour for so long. He emphasizes the importance of musical nationalism as an underlying ideology to discussions about Brazilian popular music since the 1920s and the key debate on so-called cultural invasion in Brazil. The roles of those responsible for the construction of the idea of MPB are examined in detail. Stroud analyses the increasingly close relationship that has developed between television and popular music in Brazil with particular reference to the post-1972 televised song festivals. He goes on to consider the impact of the Brazilian record industry in the light of theories of cultural imperialism and globalization and also evaluates governmental intervention relating to popular music in the 1970s. The importance of folklore and tradition in popular music that is present in both Milton de Andrade and Marcus Pereira's efforts to musically map Brazil is clearly emphasized. Stroud contrasts these two projects with Hermano Vianna and Ita Cultural's similar ventures at the end of the twentieth century that took a totally different view of musical authenticity and tradition. Stroud concludes that the defence of musical traditions in Brazil is inextricably bound up with nationalistic sentiments and a desire to protect and preserve MPB is the musical expression of the Brazilian middle class and has traditionally acted as a cultural icon because it is associated with notions of quality by certain sectors of the media.

Houses, Families, and Cohabitation Dag

Lindström, Göran Tagesson, 2024-11-05 This book is an interdisciplinary study that draws on a combination of archaeological evidence, building archaeological analysis, archival sources to explore the dynamic relations between dwelling, houses, social organization of households and patterns of cohabitation during the eighteenth century. The empirical focus of this book is on Swedish towns, but it also addresses more general issues about urbanity and urban life, space and social organization and materiality and individual agency. Aggregated questions about urban life and urban space are combined with a micro-historical method revealing aspects of daily life and urban change. This study unveils a previously neglected history. Swedish eighteenth-century towns have commonly been identified as a territory characterized by its sleepy absence of change. This study proves the opposite. Houses were built larger with more diverse and complex inner structures. Family structures changed, households generally became smaller, the share of households headed by a married couple declined and the number of single households increased. Population density increased, the number of families residing in the same house increased and rental accommodation became more prevalent. This volume is essential reading for anyone interested in early modern housing, urban change and interdisciplinary methods.
