Experiences in a Promised Land G. Thomas Edwards, Carlos A. Schwantes, 1986 Practically since the turn of the century the Northwest has been a region of paradoxes Women who in Washington had acquired suffrage and lost it in the 1880s regained it and later elected a woman mayor of Seattle Exploitation of workers despite or perhaps because of abundance has been extreme and has engendered some of America s most radical labor movements Both racial backlash and enlightened reforms characterize the region GEORGE S LONG (cl) , Selected References Concerning the USDA Forest Service , 1995 The Mountainous West William Wyckoff, Lary M. Dilsaver, 1995-01-01 Traditional interpretations of the American West have concentrated on the importance of its aridity to the region s cultural evolution and development But the West is marked by a second fact of physical geography that distinguished it from the experiences of settlers from the east As pioneers struggled with the climate west of the hundredth meridian they were also confronted by mountains strewn across the region and offering their own set of limitations and opportunities This volume focuses on these green islands of the Mountainous West that have witnessed patterns of settlement and development distinct from their lowland neighbors In thirteen essays the contributors address the mountains by means of five themes the mountains as barriers to movement islands of moisture a zone of concentrated resources an area of government control and a restorative sanctuary The focus ranges from California s Sierra Nevada to the Rocky Mountains of Colorado Utah and Montana William K Wyckoff is an associate professor Department of Earth Sciences Montana State University He is the author of The Developer s Frontier The Making of the Western New York Landscape and of articles in many journals including The California Geographer Social Science Journal Geographical Review and Journal of Historical Geography Lary M Dilsaver is a professor in the Department of Geology and Geography University of South Alabama The author with William Tweed of Challenge of the Big Trees A Resource History of Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks he has also written articles in journals such as Geographical Review Annals of Tourism Research and Yearbook of the Association of Pacific Coast Geographers American Forests Char Miller, 1997 American Forests is an interdisciplinary collection of essays that explore the impact of forestry on natural and human landscapes since the mid nineteenth century It has two main goals to present some of the most compelling arguments that have guided our understanding of the complex and evolving relationship between trees and people in the United States and to point out those aspects of this tangled interaction that we have yet fully to understand or to articulate Preface ix International Bibliography of Business History Francis Goodall, Terry Gourvish, Steven Tolliday, 2013-12-16 The field of business history has changed and grown dramatically over the last few years There is less interest in the traditional company centred approach and more concern about the wider business context With the growth of multi national corporations in the 1980s international and inter firm comparisons have gained in importance In addition there has been a move towards improving links with mainstream economic financial and social history through techniques and outlook The International Bibliography of Business History brings all of the strands together and provides the user with a comprehensive guide to the literature in the field The Bibliography is a unique volume which covers the depth and breadth of research in business history This exhaustive volume has been compiled by a team of subject specialists from around the world under the editorship of three prestigious business historians Rufus Woods, the Columbia River, and the Building of Modern Washington Robert E. Ficken, 2022-01-24 Rufus Woods editor and publisher of the Wenatchee Daily World for more than forty years has been called the High Priest of the Columbia River From his editorial platform Woods tirelessly promoted Wenatchee and north central Washington and advocated for Columbia River development He pegged his brightest hopes on a huge dam to be built in the isolated Grand Coulee region A founding member of the Dam University Woods through the World helped to keep the drive for the structure alive From 1918 through Grand Coulee's completion in 1941 he was the leading promoter of the largest dam building project in American history Utilizing his newspaper and his extensive political contacts at state and national levels Woods helped convince President Franklin Roosevelt Congress and the Bureau of Reclamation that the grandiose scheme was attainable Where others despaired he never faltered Speaking before the 1942 Grand Coulee High School graduating class Woods proudly boasted of the accomplishment that he helped see to reality So here it stands a monument to the idea and the power of an idea a monument to an organization a monument to cooperation You class of 1942 could you come back here in a thousand years hence you would hear the sojourners talking as they behold this slab of concrete and you would hear them say Here in 1942 indeed there once lived a great people Woods got his dam but not the Wenatchee boom he desired Possible only because of federal financing those in control imposed a vast maze of power lines emanating from the dam's huge hydroelectric plant Cities like Portland and Seattle benefited from its power much more than Wenatchee Even so Woods's beloved adopted home grew tremendously during his lifetime and much of that economic development can be attributed to his single minded efforts Phil Weyerhaeuser Charles E. Twining, 2015-08-17 This is a rich and many faceted personal and business biography of the main figure in the third generation of Weyerhaeusers who led the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company through the difficult and decisive years from 1933 to 1956 Although Phil Weyerhaeuser preferred to pass over the importance of his role he was an industry leader and as such could not escape a large public duty The years in which he served from the 1920s in the Inland Empire and from 1933 to 1956 with the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company west of the Cascades were years of great demands and change Within his tenure the country experience the Great Depression and World War II the reluctant acceptance by business of New Deal and Fair Deal legislation and bureaucratic requirements and the adjustments occasioned by the managerial revolution In the case of the Timber Company the period witnessed its transition from what had been primarily a dealer in timberlands to an integrated manufacturer of forest products from a liquidator of forest resources to a managers of tree farms designed to be perpetual in their providence Phil oversaw his responsibilities to good purpose His quiet style is of interest and so too are the effects of just being a Weyerhaeuser The latter of course had much to do with his opportunities and also influenced the manner in which he conducted himself But it was not without its liabilities and the family relationships are an important element in the story The most significant feature however has to do with the study of a period and a place and an industry through the experiences of a very special organization and its leadership The study brings people and events into clearer focus and gives them added meaning This is of particular importance in an industry so given to stereotyping and disapprobation This well written account reveals in detail the operation of a huge family enterprise government industry relations at a key time in United States history labor relations and efforts to expand and continually revitalize a large company dependent on natural resources over a period of half a century Central to these efforts was Phil s conviction that the best way for a forest products company to operate was to own its own timberlands he saw such holdings as necessary if the company was to engage in sustained yield management This biography draws extensively on primary sources correspondence family records memoranda and numerous interviews It will be of interest to historians of the Pacific Northwest and the forest products industry students of business history and all readers interested in the development of a major American company
