Machina Ex Deo Lynn Townsend White,1968 Machina Ex Deo: Essays in the Dynamism of Western Culture Lynn White (ifj.),1968 Machina Ex Deo Lynn White,1968 Fifty Years of Medieval Technology and Social Change Steven A. Walton,2019-08-22 This volume brings together a series of papers at Kalamazoo as well as some contributed papers inspired by the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of Lynn White Jr s Medieval Technology and Social Change 1962 a slim study which catalyzed the study of technology in the Middle Ages in the English speaking world While the initial reviews and decades long fortune of the volume have been varied it is still in print and remains a touchstone of an idea and a time The contributors to the volume therefore both investigate the book itself and its fate and look at new research furthering and inspired by White s work The book opens with an introduction surveying White s career with a bibliography of his work as well as some opening thoughts on the study of medieval technology in the last fifty years Three papers then deal explicitly with the reception and longevity of his work and its impact on medieval studies more generally Then five papers look at new cast studies areas where White s work and approach has had a particular impact namely medieval technology studies and medieval rural ecological studies

The Colonizer's Model of the World J. M. Blaut,2012-07-23 This influential book challenges one of the most pervasive and powerful beliefs of our time that Europe rose to modernity and world dominance due to unique qualities of race environment culture mind or spirit and that progress for the rest of the world resulted from the diffusion of European civilization J M Blaut persuasively argues that this doctrine is not grounded in the facts of history and geography but in the ideology of colonialism Blaut traces the colonizer s model of the world from its 16th century origins to its present form in theories of economic development modernization and new world order Humanities National Endowment for the Humanities, Comparative Mythology Jaan Puhvel,1987 In myth author Puhvel argues a human group expresses the thought patterns by which it formulates self cognition and self realization attains self knowledge and self confidence explains its own sources and sometimes tries to chart its destinies Here Puhvel unravels the prehistoric origins of the traditions of India and Iran Greece and Rome of the Celts Germans Balts and Slavs Utilizing the methodologies of historical linguistics and archaeology he reconstructs a shared prehistorical religious mythological and cultural heritage Separate chapters on individual traditions as well as on recurrent themes give life to the book as both a general introduction and a detailed reference From publisher description Work in Ancient and Medieval Thought B. van de Hoven,2023-01-16 The main object of this study is to find out whether the differences between classical and medieval thinking about work occupations and technology are so significant that we are justified in speaking of a real break between Antiquity and the Middle Ages in this connection or whether there is a possible continuity of ideas From a comparative perspective five themes are being researched to shed light on this ques tion In the first two chapters the author looks into the traditional view of negative ideas about work in Antiquity Chapter three subsequently deals with monks and their attitude towards labour In chapter four the place of the so called artes mechanicae in medieval classifications of knowledge is being studied In chapter five we find an analysis of twelfth century sermons ad status These three chapters principally deal with the question whether Christianity brought about a change in attitude towards work

An Environmental History of Medieval Europe Richard Hoffmann, 2014-04-10 How did medieval Europeans use and change their environments think about the natural world and try to handle the natural forces affecting their lives This groundbreaking environmental history examines medieval relationships with the natural world from the perspective of social ecology viewing human society as a hybrid of the cultural and the natural Richard Hoffmann s interdisciplinary approach sheds important light on such central topics in medieval history as the decline of Rome religious doctrine urbanization and technology as well as key environmental themes among them energy use sustainability disease and climate change Revealing the role of natural forces in events previously seen as purely human the book explores issues including the treatment of animals the tragedy of the commons agricultural clearances and agrarian economies By introducing medieval history in the context of social ecology it brings the natural world into historiography as an agent and object of history itself
