Encyclopedia of Paleontology Ronald Singer, 2019-06-04 The Encyclopedia of Paleontology is designed to address the shortage of general reference works on both vertebrate and invertebrate paleontology and to serve the needs of students and lay persons interested in the field As the encyclopedia aims to provide basic information the majority of the 350 entries are devoted to explanations of paleontological concepts and techniques examinations of the evolutionary development of particular organisms and biological features profiles of major discoveries and biographies of leading scientists Each entry includes an essay and a further reading list An international team of 200 leading experts in the field has prepared the illustrations and the essays which range from concise descriptions to comprehensive discussions Text Sets Joanne Kilgour Dowdy, Rachael Fleischaker, 2018-07-17 Text Sets Multimodal Learning for Multicultural Students integrates a multicultural approach to teaching with standards based instruction and multimodal learning opportunities in a variety of content areas This unique combination allows teachers to meet the demands of their curriculum while recognizing and honoring the diverse students in their classroom Each chapter provides an annotated text set with a specific theme curricular goals and instructional activities that suggest ways for students to interact with the texts In addition to providing ready made text sets it models a framework for teachers to build their own text sets based on the individual needs of their schools and communities African Witchcraft and Global Asylum-Seeking Katherine Luongo, 2023-04-17 This book analyzes how over the last two decades immigration regimes in three primary refugee receiving states in the Global North Canada

Australia and the United Kingdom have engaged with allegations about witchcraft driven violence made by asylum seekers coming from Anglophone countries across the African continent. The work intervenes at the nexus of anthropological, historical, legal, developmental and human rights literatures to offer fresh insights into extrajudicial violence and global migration. Taking witchcraft based asylum cases as its focal point, it argues that the recent dramatic expansion in claims to refugee protection under the particular social group category of the 1951 UN Refugee Convention reflects immigration authorities increasing willingness to consider how legally recognizable persecution can derive from cultural practices and beliefs. Reflecting critically on such cases, it advances understandings of how witchcraft beliefs and practices have persisted as significant engines of violence in the contemporary world. It sheds light both on the limits of legal pluralism and cultural relativism in asylum adjudication and on how social scientific expertise contributes not simply to the flow of ideas but also to the channelling of people across national, cultural and epistemological boundaries. The book will be essential reading for students and researchers in legal anthropology, African studies, human rights, transnational history, migration and refugee law and policy, and the history and anthropology of witchcraft.

The Role of the Ombudsman in Nigeria Bennett Adesegun Odunsi, 2007. This study offers an analysis of the historical antecedents and a criticism of the contemporary institution of the Ombudsman in Nigeria. This work should appeal to scholars interested in African studies, legal studies and political science of the British colonial administration. After gaining independence from British colonial rule, the government did not deviate from the established practice of the colonial administration in relation to the protection of the rights of the citizens. The only available channel for citizens to challenge arbitrary and capricious action of administrative officials is the ordinary courts of law. Justice in administrative areas under this arrangement often seems slow and wanting. Therefore, the military government instituted a commission of enquiry to analyze and find ways to improve the situation, which recommended the establishment of the institution of the Ombudsman to enhance the impact of the FCC on grievance resolution. The FCC must become autonomous from the civil service structure and provisions must be made to increase the legal powers and jurisdictional competence of the FCC. A vigorous publicity campaign must be mounted to keep the public abreast of the functions of the FCC. A team of competent, aggressive and enterprising personnel must be attracted to the FCC to enhance efficiency and professionalism.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT IN WESTERN NIGERIA: ABEOKUTA, 1830-1952. Dr. Akinniyi Savage, 2010-05-25. The purpose of this book, Local Government in Western Nigeria Abeokuta 1830-1952, a case study of exemplary institutional change, is to delineate the democratization process of governmental institutions in the city of Abeokuta, western Nigeria, during the 1940s and 1950s. The Egba at Abeokuta were chosen because they are an important ethnicity within the Yoruba, the then third most populous ethnic group in Nigeria. The period from 1939 to 1952 marks the time when western Nigeria was ruled via the native administration system, the local governmental structure instituted by the British. However, the historiography of the Egba is elongated to include the formation of Abeokuta in 1830. By 1952, government was nominally extended to every constituency in Abeokuta This presaged the comprehensive democratization movement in Nigeria
