Proteinase Inhibitors Proceedings Of The 2nd International Research Conference:

Proteinase Inhibitors H. Fritz, H. Tschesche, L.J. Greene, E. Truscheit, 2012-12-06 These proceedings contain the papers presented at the Bayer Symposium V which was held in Grosse Ledder on October 16 21 1973 and which was simultaneously the Second International Research Conference on Proteinase Inhibitors The cordial atmosphere the frank discussions and the profitable exchange of ideas during the First International Research Conference on Proteinase Inhibitors which was held on November 4 6 1970 in Munich were a stimulant for us to consider holding a Second Conference especially as the steadily increasing research activities in this and related fields called for a new assessment of recent efforts in proteinase inhibitor research In the three years since the First Conference was held this field has developed particularly in the areas of molecular aspects of protein protein interactions and in the extension to inhibitors of nonserine proteinases and peptidases In planning this meeting the Organizing Committee was faced with the problem of selecting a limited number of participants and we decided that it was appropriate and necessary to focus in detail on the chemistry of proteinase inhibitors their interactions with a variety of enzymes and also to invite more general papers to survey the physiological and clinical aspects of the subject which we felt would be of importance in the future

Molecular and Cellular Mechanisms in Disease J.L. VanLancker,2012-12-06 In spite of ingenious experiments imaginative theories and unshakable faith in supreme forces there is no way to know how life began What is certain is that in the course of the development of the universe existing sources of energy fused to generate atoms and atoms mingled to become small molecules At some point by chance or design according to one's belief but no one's evidence small molecules such as hydrogen oxygen carbon dioxide water and ammonia reacted to yield larger molecules with the property most essential to life self replication Such molecules had to achieve a proper balance between the stability needed for their survival in the environment and the mutability for the generation of many forms of life How amino acids were created or how DNA RNA and proteins developed remains a mystery But we know that a simple core of nucleic acid embedded in a protein coat made the simplest unit of life except for viroids Whether viruses are a primitive or degenerated form of life is not known Once proteins appeared their great structural plasticity allowed them to react with other elements such as sulfur iron copper and zinc After an incalculable number of years some of the proteins became capable of catalyzing the synthesis of new nucleic acids new proteins and other compounds such as polysaccharides and lipids Experimental Models of Chronic Inflammatory Diseases L.E. Glynn,H.D. Schlumberger,2012-12-06 With the introduction of antibiotics acute inflammatory disease has ceased to be the dominant problem in general medical practice and its place is now increasingly occupied by chronic inflammatory disease of which the rheumatic diseases constitute the most important group Two aspects of these diseases need to be considered their aetiology and their pathogenesis In some respects the latter is more important since even when the aetiology is known as for example the haemolytic streptococcus in rheumatic fever the mechanism by which the infecting agent accomplishes the development of the lesions that characterise the disease are still largely unknown Still more so is this the case in rheumatoid arthritis and other chronic inflammations where the aetiological agents are unknown In an attempt to clarify the pathogenic mechanisms involved several attempts have been made to induce comparable lesions in experimental animals partly to test underlying hypotheses and partly to provide test situations for the trial of new therapeutic agents In view of the deficiencies in the current drug treatment of chronic inflammatory disease there are many who feel that this is largely due to the inadequacy of the models available for test purposes Biochemical Medicine ,1982
