Provident Sea:

The Provident Sea D. H. Cushing, 1988-09-30 Based on original scientific material this study traces the history of fish stock management including whales and seals up to recent times when problems of over exploitation have had dramatic effects upon stocks

The Restless Sea Robert Kunzig, 1999 The sea covers seven tenths of the Earth but we have mapped only a small percent of it The sea contains millions of species of animals and plants but we have identified only a few thousand of them The sea controls our planet's climate but we do not really understand how The sea is still the frontier and yet it seems so familiar that we sometimes forget how little we know about it Just as we are poised on the verge of exploiting the sea on an unprecedented scale mining it fertilizing it fishing it out this book reminds us of how much we have yet to learn More than that it chronicles the knowledge explosion that has transformed our view of the sea in just the past few decades and made it a far more interesting and accessible place

The Fishmeal Revolution Kristin A. Wintersteen, 2021-05-25 Off the Pacific coast of South America nutrients mingle with cool waters rising from the ocean's depths creating one of the world's most productive marine ecosystems the Humboldt Current When the region's teeming populations of fish were converted into a key ingredient in animal feed fishmeal it fueled the revolution in chicken hog and fish farming that swept the United States and northern Europe after World War II The Fishmeal Revolution explores industrialization along the Peru Chile coast as fishmeal producers pulverized and exported unprecedented volumes of marine proteins to satisfy the growing taste for meat among affluent consumers in the Global North A relentless drive to maximize profits from the sea occurred at the same time that Peru and Chile grappled with the challenge of environmental uncertainty and its potentially devastating impact In this exciting new book Kristin A Wintersteen offers an important history and critique of the science and policy that shaped the global food industry

Sea Currents in Nineteenth-Century Art, Science and Culture Kathleen Davidson, Molly Duggins, 2023-03-09 How did scientists artists designers manufacturers and amateur enthusiasts experience and value the sea and its products Examining the commoditization of the ocean world during the nineteenth century this book demonstrates how the transaction of oceanic objects inspired a multifaceted material discourse stemming from scientific exploration colonial expansion industrialization and the rise of middle class leisure From the seashore to the seabed marine organisms and environments made tangible through processing and representational technologies captivated practitioners and audiences Combining essays and case studies by scholars curators and scientists Sea Currents investigates the collecting and display illustration and ornamentation and trade and consumption of marine flora and fauna analysing their material aesthetic and commercial dimensions Traversing global art history the history of science empire studies anthropology ecocriticism and material culture this book surveys the currency of marine matter embedded in the economies and ecologies of a modernizing ocean world

Ocean Management in Global Change P. Fabbri, 2003-09-02 The main aims of the conference were to examine present and expected trends in coastal and ocean resource use to evaluate the state of the art and the expected evolution in theory and practice of management and to discuss scientific and technological developments and their impacts on management

The Mortal Sea W. Jeffrey Bolster, 2012-10-08 Since the time of the Vikings the Atlantic has shaped the lives of people who depend on it for survival and people have shaped the Atlantic In his account of this interdependency Bolster a historian and professional seafarer takes us through a millennium long environmental history of our impact on one of the largest ecosystems in the world

Routledge Handbook of Ocean Resources and Management Hance D. Smith, Juan Luis Suárez de Vivero, Tundi S. Agardy, 2015-10-16 This comprehensive handbook provides a global overview of ocean resources and management by focusing on critical issues relating to human development and the marine environment their interrelationships as expressed through the uses of the sea as a resource and the regional expression of these themes The underlying approach is geographical with prominence given to the biosphere political arrangements and regional patterns all considered to be especially crucial to the human understanding required for the use and management of the world's oceans Part one addresses key themes in our knowledge of relationships between people and the sea on a global scale including economic and political issues and understanding and managing marine environments Part two provides a systematic review of the uses of the sea grouped into food ocean space materials and energy and the sea as an environmental resource Part three on the geography of the sea considers management strategies especially related to the state system and regional management developments in both core economic regions and the developing periphery Chapter 23 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 3.0 license https://www.routledgehandbooks.com/doi/10.4324/9780203115398_ch23

Making Seafood

Sustainable Mansel G. Blackford, 2011-12-30 In the spring of 2007 National Geographic warned The oceans are in deep blue trouble From the northernmost reaches of the Greenland Sea to the swirl of the Antarctic Circle we are gutting our seas of fish There were legitimate grounds for concern After increasing more than fourfold between 1950 and 1994 the global wild fish catch reached a plateau and stagnated despite exponential growth in the fishing industry As numerous scientific reports showed many fish stocks around the world collapsed creating a genuine global overfishing crisis Making Seafood Sustainable analyzes the ramifications of overfishing for the United States by investigating how fishers seafood processors retailers government officials and others have worked together to respond to the crisis Historian Mansel G Blackford examines how these players took steps to make fishing in some American waters especially in Alaskan waters sustainable Critical to these efforts Blackford argues has been government and industry collaboration in formulating and enforcing regulations What can be learned from these successful experiences Are they applicable elsewhere What are the drawbacks Making Seafood Sustainable addresses these questions and suggests that sustainable seafood management can be made to work The economic and social costs incurred in achieving sustainable resource usage are significant but there are ways to mitigate them More broadly this study illustrates ways to manage commonly held natural resources around the world land water oil and so on in sustainable ways

Encyclopedia of Global Change Andrew S. Goudie,2002 Mapping the relationship between human society and the Earth the Encyclopedia of Global Change is the first general reference guide to the impact of politics population economics and technology on the planet Containing over 300 original signed articles by distinguished scholars it is the comprehensive work for this multi discipline high profile field The Encyclopedia synthesizes current knowledge on natural and human made changes in the Earth's physical chemical and biological systems and the effects of these changes on society Areas such as altered ecosystems climate change food supply water production and consumption population and the political impact of global change are covered in detail And the clearly written articles also include responses to global modification agreements and associations institutions policies biographies and case studies Enhanced by 1 500 illustrations extensive cross references bibliographies and an index the Encyclopedia of Global Change links essential knowledge across many fields geography geology geophysics atmospheric science political science economics technology and others in a resource that is both accessible and authoritative The jargon free language makes it an excellent work for the professional scholar as well as the interested general reader Turning the Tide Great Britain. Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution,Sir Tom

Blundell,2004 This Royal Commission report on protection of the marine environment focuses on the impact of marine fishing in the seas around the UK both on fish populations and the wider ecosystem It considers a range of issues including the role of the fishing industry and its growth over the last 50 years the legal framework for the marine environment and fisheries at the national European and international levels the impact of fishing and the legacy of overfishing aquaculture fisheries marine protected areas improved fisheries management and a system of marine spatial planning The report concludes that as a society we give much lower priority to protecting our seas compared with the land and over fishing is a global problem which has led to the collapse of fisheries in many areas This situation requires significant urgent change which recognises the need for sustainable fisheries management and avoids the degradation of our seas placing it within the context of wider management of human activities in the marine environment Recommendations made include the introduction of a Marine Act to establish a statutory framework with strategic objectives for marine environmental protection a move away from a presumption in favour of fishing rights to a precautionary approach which requires demonstration that fishing activity is environmentally sustainable establishing a network of marine protected areas within the UK over the next five years which would lead to 30 per cent of the UK's exclusive economic zone being closed to commercial fishing and a change in the emphasis of research away from management of fish populations towards a wider focus on the marine environment

The Baltic and the North Seas Merja-Liisa Hinkkanen, David Kirby, 2013-06-17 Exploring the themes of the human relationship with the marine environment and the ways in which the peoples of Northern Europe have experienced and exploited their seas this book reveals how human perception of the northern seas has changed over time Drawing on a wide variety of sources from Denmark and Britain to Norway Finland and Germany The Baltic and the North Seas is an insightful and colourful history of the politics economy and culture of this intriguing region

Fisheries, Quota Management and Quota Transfer Gordon M. Winder, 2017-07-11 This volume examines the impact of fish stock assessment and catch share arrangements in context through case studies and in terms of ecosystem economy and society It examines the rationalizing work of bio economic projects especially the institutionalization of individual transferable quota ITQ in fisheries what impact have they had on fisheries and fishers The contributing authors understand ITQ and quota management as bio economic projects that is as widely deployed but locally constituted projects that combine biological and economic logics to rationalize production and in this case fish Politicians and managers use these projects and the models that justify them to rationalize fisheries in favor of modern technology and for capital and species efficiency Aimed at a diverse interdisciplinary fisheries management readership and designed as a guide to issues emerging in any assessment of ITQ the book is a timely investigation of the origins and diverse experiences of ITQ projects including resistance to them attempts to develop fisheries management around them and experiences of the risks that come with them Now around forty years old ITQ has never been subject to the kind of comprehensive sustainability assessments once advocated by Elinor Ostrom let alone the full cost accounting of impacts at the national level that Evelyn Pinkerton recently called for Fisheries Quota Management and Quota Transfer offers multi disciplinary assessments of the effects of ITQ from scholars working in eight countries The book brings together scholars from anthropology economics geography sociology the history of science and marine environmental history to discuss experiences from fisheries in eight industrialized countries It considers cases from outside as well as inside the EU including ITQ pioneers New Zealand and Iceland The combination allows for an unprecedented international perspective on stock assessments and share allocation systems By emphasizing emerging becoming learning and transforming through knowledge the book conceives technology as a field of power and choice nevertheless dominated by managers through specific projects in specific contexts Individual chapters relate bio economic projects to separate theoretical literature an approach that facilitates multi disciplinary dialog Marine Fisheries Review ,1988 Population Production and Regulation in the Sea D. H. Cushing,1995-06-15 How do fish populations regulate themselves Why do some fish stocks flourish and then die away These questions have fascinated fisheries scientists for decades and in the last twenty years answers have begun to emerge In this comprehensive 1995 account David Cushing shows how the fate of fish larvae which live close to the centres of production in the sea has a crucial effect on population regulation He shows how the timing and development of tidal fronts in particular regions has profound implications for fish and plankton production which in turn affects fish recruitment If recruitment of fish larvae into the pool of adult fish is insufficient stocks may fail It is only by understanding these processes that we can hope to recognise the implications of global climate change on marine populations This book will be essential reading for all those interested in marine ecology and fisheries biology
