Impact Evaluation of Transport Interventions David A. Raitzer,Nina Blöndal,Jasmin Sibal,2019-04-01 This publication aims to support impact evaluation in the transport sector by assessing what has been produced against what might be possible It reviews 91 impact evaluations of transport interventions in developing countries summarizes findings on outcomes identifies evidence gaps and proposes ways forward Most of the studies reviewed find significant effects on at least one of the outcomes investigated However impact evaluation has given relatively little coverage to major areas of investment such as urban and sustainable transportation transport corridors and efficiency enhancing measures New methods and increasing openness of geospatial data provide scope to generate more innovative impact studies

Biochar for Environmental Management Johannes Lehmann,Stephen Joseph,2012-05-16 Biochar is the carbon rich product when biomass such as wood manure or crop residues is heated in a closed container with little or no available air. It can be used to improve agriculture and the environment in several ways and its stability in soil and superior nutrient retention properties make it an ideal soil amendment to increase crop yields. In addition to this biochar sequestration in combination with sustainable biomass production can be carbon negative and therefore used to actively remove carbon dioxide from the atmosphere with major implications for mitigation of climate change. Biochar production can also be combined with bioenergy production through the use of the gases that are given off in the pyrolysis process. This book is the first to synthesize the expanding research literature on this topic. The book's interdisciplinary approach which covers engineering, environmental sciences, agricultural sciences, economics and policy is a vital tool at this stage of biochar technology development. This comprehensive overview of current knowledge will be of interest to advanced students, researchers and professionals in a wide range of disciplines.

United States Holidays and Observances Steve Rajtar, 2024-10-17 Every day of the year somewhere in the United States some sort of holiday or special remembrance is being observed by individuals, organizations or governments. January 30 is Pennsylvanians with Disabilities Day. On March 26 Hawaii celebrates Prince Janah Kuhio Kalanianaʻole Day. November 9 is set aside for Women Veterans Day in Alaska while in Puerto Rico they honor baseball scout Pedrin Zorilla and as the sun sets New Jersey holds a Kristallnacht Memorial Night. This book is a detailed reference work about holidays and special observances established by statute in the United States including American Samoa, the District of Columbia, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Because the United States is a member state of the United Nations, U.N. designated holidays and longer periods of time such as years and decades devoted to important world issues are also included. Following the day by day section, holidays are listed chronologically within their jurisdictions; federally designated observances are first in the list, states and territories follow in alphabetical order. A subject index offers access to particular topics; nursing, education, peace and a name index indicates holidays celebrating the lives of individuals.

Food Distribution Facilities in Dayton, Ohio Paul Joseph Hanlon, 1969

Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, 1971 Identifies and describes specific government assistance opportunities such as loans, grants, counseling and procurement contracts available under many agencies and programs.

Re-engineering Affordable Care Policy in China Peter Nan-shong Lee, 2018-12-14 Presenting a comprehensive examination of China's medical care system, this book tackles issues of policymaking, organization, management and financing in the context of the provision of affordable care in China. Making use of extensive field investigations, interviews and a thorough analysis of documents, this book examines the restructuring of the medical care system spanning more than three and half decades from 1979 to the present day. Assessing the difficulties of regulatory control in the health care sector, it also explores theoretical alternatives including post-Weberian constructs of uncertainty and control as well as franchise and asymmetric information in market transactions Ultimately it argues that patient medical care has become less and less affordable amid shrinking government subsidies breakdowns of public insurances and increases in user charges especially between the mid 1990s and mid 2000s Whilst the government took decades to re organize the public hospital system and rebuild public insurances it faced a dilemma of enforcing both low cost medical care and maintaining revenue flow to public hospitals through marketization Re engineering Affordable Care Policy in China provides extensive discussion of the policymaking process as well as detailed analysis of policy contents As such it will be invaluable to students and scholars of Chinese social policy and public administration as well as Chinese Studies more generally
