

CURRENT INTELLECTUAL CRISIS OF THOUGHT REQUIRES NEW ENLIGHTENMENT

Fernando Alcaforado*

The world is facing in the contemporary era with several crises. With each passing day, these crises deepen in the economic, political, social and environmental areas, whether at national level or on a global scale. However, the greatest crisis experienced by humanity today is the intellectual crisis of thought that constitutes the main obstacle to overcoming other crises and to the construction of a new society centered on real economic, political, social and environmental progress. The intellectual crisis of thought in the contemporary era is what makes the world we live in chaotic, like a ship drifting towards disaster.

In the 18th century, several thinkers began to mobilize around the defense of ideas that guided the renewal of practices and institutions in force throughout Europe. Raising philosophical questions that thought about the condition and happiness of man, the Enlightenment movement systematically attacked everything that was considered contrary to the search for happiness, justice and social equality. The Enlightenment movement was based on the belief in the power of reason and progress, freedom of thought and political emancipation. The Enlightenment was a global, philosophical, political, social, economic and cultural movement, which advocated the use of reason as the best way to achieve freedom, autonomy and political emancipation. The 18th century Enlightenment used classical science values to forge a new worldview, based on the equality of all.

With the Enlightenment, we have an optimistic view of the world that would not be able to interrupt its progress to the extent that man had the full use of his rationality. Natural rights, respect for diversity of ideas and social justice should promote the improvement of the human condition. Offering these ideas, the Enlightenment motivated the bourgeois revolutions in France and throughout the world in the 18th century that brought the end of the Old Regime and the installation of liberal doctrines that prevailed in the world until the contemporary era.

The Enlightenment provided the motto of the French Revolution (Freedom, Equality and Fraternity) and fertilized it as its followers opposed injustices, religious intolerance and the privileges of absolutism. However, from the French Revolution to the present moment, the political promises of the Enlightenment have been abandoned around the world with the adoption of increasingly inhumane practices by governments and imperialists by the great capitalist powers, the triggering of 3 world wars (World War I, World War II and the Cold War), the advent of fascism, Nazism and neo-fascism, military interventions and coups d'état in several countries around the world.

Modernity was born with the 1st Industrial Revolution that occurred in 1876 in England, meaning an extraordinary intellectual effort by Enlightenment thinkers to develop science and reason and discover universal laws to be put at the service of humanity. With the Industrial Revolution, science and technology acquired a fundamental importance for human progress, through continuous technological innovations. The idea was to use the accumulation of knowledge generated in pursuit of human happiness and the enrichment of daily life.

Modernity is generally associated with the 2nd Industrial Revolution resulting from socioeconomic changes with the industrialization of England, France, Germany, Italy, the United States and Japan, characterized especially by the development of new sources of
