Rulin waishi and Cultural Transformation in Late Imperial China Shang Wei, 2020-10-26 Rulin waishi The Unofficial History of the Scholars is more than a landmark in the history of the Chinese novel This eighteenth century work which was deeply embedded in the intellectual and literary discourses of its time challenges the reader to come to grips with the mid Qing debates over ritual and ritualism and the construction of history narrative and lyricism Wu Jingzi's 1701-54 ironic portrait of literati life was unprecedented in its comprehensive treatment of the degeneration of mores the predicaments of official institutions and the Confucian elite's futile struggle to reassert moral and cultural authority Like many of his fellow literati Wu found the vernacular novel an expressive and malleable medium for discussing elite concerns Through a close reading of Rulin waishi Shang Wei seeks to answer such questions as What accounts for the literati's enthusiasm for writing and reading novels Does this enthusiasm bespeak a conscious effort to develop a community of critical discourse outside the official world Why did literati authors eschew publication What are the bases for their social and cultural criticisms How far do their criticisms go given the authors' alleged Confucianism And if literati authors were interested solely in recovering moral and cultural hegemony for their class how can we explain the irony found in their works

A Northern Alternative Kee Heong Koh, 2020-10-26 Conventional portraits of Neo Confucianism in China are built on studies of scholars active in the south yet Xue Xuan 1389 1464 the first Ming Neo Confucian to be enshrined in the Temple to Confucius was a northerner Why has Xue been so overlooked in the history of Neo Confucianism In this first systematic study in English of the highly influential thinker author Khee Heong Koh seeks to redress Xue's marginalization while showing how a study interested mainly in ideas can integrate social and intellectual history to offer a broader picture of history. Significant in its attention to Xue as well as its approach, the book situates the ideas of Xue and his Hedong School in comparative perspective. Koh first provides an in-depth analysis of Xue's philosophy as well as his ideas on kinship, organizations, educational institutions, and intellectual networks, and then places them in the context of Xue's life and the actual practices of his descendants and students. Through this new approach to intellectual history, Koh demonstrates the complexity of the Neo-Confucian tradition and gives voice to a group of northern scholars who identified themselves as Neo-Confucians but had a vision that was distinctly different from their southern counterparts.

Li Mengyang, the North-South Divide, and Literati Learning in Ming China Chang Woei Ong, 2020-10-26

Li Mengyang (1473-1530) was a scholar-official and man of letters who initiated the literary archaist movement that sought to restore ancient styles of prose and poetry in sixteenth-century China. In this first book-length study of Li in English, Chang Woei Ong comprehensively examines his intellectual scheme and situates Li's quest to redefine literati learning as a way to build a perfect social order in the context of intellectual transitions since the Song dynasty. Ong examines Li's emergence at the distinctive historical juncture of the mid-Ming dynasty when differences between northern and southern literati cultures and visions were articulated as a north-south divide, both real and perceived, among Chinese thinkers. Ong argues that this divide and the ways in which Ming literati compartmentalized learning is key to understanding Li's thought and its legacy. Though a northerner, Li became a powerful voice in prose and poetry in both a positive and negative sense as he was championed or castigated by the southern literati communities. The southern literati's indifference toward Li's other intellectual endeavors, including cosmology, ethics, political philosophy, and historiography, furthered his utter marginalization in those fields.

Transgressive Typologies Doran Doran, 2020-10-26

The exceptionally powerful Chinese women leaders of the late seventh and early eighth centuries, including Wu Zhao, the Taiping and Anle princesses, Empress Wei, and Shangguo Wan'er, though quite prominent in the Chinese cultural tradition, remain elusive and often misunderstood or essentialized throughout history. Transgressive Typologies utilizes a new multidisciplinary approach to understand how these figures' historical identities are constructed in the mainstream secular literary historical tradition and to analyze the points of view that inform these constructions. Using close readings and rereadings of primary texts written in medieval China through later imperial times, this study elucidates narrative typologies and motifs associated with these women to explore how their power is rhetorically framed, gendered, and ultimately deemed transgressive. Rebecca Doran offers a new understanding of major female figures of the Tang era within their literary historical contexts and delves into critical questions about the relationship between Chinese historiography, reception history, and the process of image-making and cultural construction.

City of Virtues Chuck Wooldridge, 2015-06-01

Throughout Nanjing's history, writers have claimed that its spectacular landscape of mountains and rivers imbued the city with royal qi, making it a place of great political significance. City of Virtues examines the ways a series of visionaries drawing on past glories of the city projected their ideologies onto Nanjing as they constructed buildings performed rituals and reworked the literary heritage of the city More than an urban history of Nanjing from the late 18th century until 1911 encompassing the Opium War the Taiping occupation of the city the rebuilding of the city by Zeng Guofan and attempts to establish it as the capital of the Republic of China this study shows how utopian visions of the cosmos shaped Nanjing's path through the turbulent 19th century Shifting Stories Sarah M. Allen, 2020-10-26 Shifting Stories explores the tale literature of eighth and ninth century China to show how the written tales we have today grew out of a fluid culture of hearsay that circulated within elite society Sarah M Allen focuses on two main types of tales those based in gossip about recognizable public figures and those developed out of lore concerning the occult She demonstrates how writers borrowed and adapted stories and plots already in circulation and how they transformed them in some instances into unique and artfully wrought tales For most readers of that era tales remained open texts subject to revision by many hands over the course of transmission unconstrained by considerations of textual integrity or authorship Only in the mid to late ninth century did some readers and editors come to see the particular wording and authorship of a tale as important a shift that ultimately led to the formation of the Tang tale canon as it is envisioned today One Who Knows Me Anna Shields, 2020-10-26 The friendships of writers of the mid Tang era 780s 820s between literary giants like Bai Juyi and Yuan Zhen Han Yu and Meng Jiao Liu Zongyuan and Liu Yuxi became famous through the many texts they wrote to and about one another What inspired mid Tang literati to write about their friendships with such zeal And how did these writings influence Tang literary culture more broadly In One Who Knows Me the first book to delve into friendship in medieval China Anna M Shields explores the literature of the mid Tang to reveal the complex value its writers discovered in friendship as a rewarding social practice a rich literary topic a way to negotiate literati identity and a path toward self understanding Shields traces the evolution of the performance of friendship through a wide range of genres including letters prefaces exchange poetry and funerary texts and interweaves elegant translations with close readings of these texts For mid Tang literati writing about friendship became a powerful way to write about oneself and to reflect upon a shared culture Their texts reveal the ways that friendship intersected the public and private realms of experience and in the process reshaped both Home and the World Yuming He, 2020-10-26 China's sixteenth and seventeenth centuries saw an unprecedented explosion in the production and circulation of woodblock printed books What can surviving traces of that era's print culture reveal about the makers and consumers of these books Home and the World addresses this question by carefully examining a wide range of late Ming books considering them not merely as texts but as material objects and economic commodities designed produced and marketed to stand out in the distinctive book marketplace of the time and promising high enjoyment and usefulness to readers Although many of the mass market commercial imprints studied here might have struck scholars from the eighteenth century on as too trivial lowbrow or slipshod to merit serious study they prove to be an invaluable resource providing insight into their readers orientations toward the increasingly complex global stage of early modernity and toward traditional Chinese conceptions of textual political and moral authority On a more intimate scale they tell us about readers ideals of a fashionable and pleasurable private life Through studying these works we come closer to recapturing the trend conscious sophisticated and often subversive ways readers at this important moment in China s history imagined their world and their place within it 2015 Joseph Levenson Book Prize Pre 1900 Category China and Inner Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies

Structures of the Earth D. Jonathan Felt,2022-03-07 The traditional Chinese notion of itself as the middle kingdom literally the cultural and political center of the world remains vital to its own self perceptions and became foundational to Western understandings of China This worldview was primarily constructed during the earliest imperial unification of China during the Qin and Han dynasties 221 BCE 220 CE But the fragmentation of empire and subsequent Age of Disunion 220 589 CE that followed undermined imperial orthodoxies of unity centrality and universality In response geographical writing proliferated exploring greater spatial complexities and alternative worldviews This book is the first study of the emergent genre of geographical writing and the metageographies that structured its spatial thought during that period Early medieval geographies highlighted spatial units and structures that the Qin Han empire had intentionally sought to obscure including those of regional natural and foreign spaces Instead these postimperial metageographies reveal a polycentric China in a polycentric world Sui Tang 581 906 CE officials reasserted the imperial model as spatial orthodoxy But since that time these alternative frameworks have persisted in geographical thought continuing to illuminate spatial complexities that have been incompatible with the imperial and nationalist ideal of a monolithic China at the center of the world Saying All That Can Be Said Keith McMahon,2024-09-09 In Saying All That Can Be Said Keith McMahon presents the first full analysis of the
