Britannia's children Kathryn A Castle,2017-03-01 Many European countries their imperial territories and rapidly Europeanising imitators like Japan established a powerful zone of intellectual ideological and moral convergence in the projection of state power and collective objectives to children This book is an introduction to the imperial images of the Indian African and Chinese created for the youth of Britain through their history textbooks and popular periodicals Focusing on materials produced for children by textbook historians and the popular press it provides a study of both the socialization of the young and the source of race perceptions in 20th century British society Against a backdrop of promoting the wonderful development of the Anglo Saxon race textbook historians approached British India as the primary example of imperial achievement Chinese characters continued to feature in the periodicals in a variety of situations set both in China and the wider world Africa was a favoured setting for adventure in the years between the world wars and African characters of long standing retained their popularity While much of the improving material began to disappear reflecting the move toward a youth centred culture Indian African and Chinese characters still played an important role in stories and features The images of race continued into the inter war years The book shows how society secures the rising generation in the beliefs of the parent society and how the myths of race and nationality became an integral part of Britain s own process of self identification Punch Mark Lemon, Henry Mayhew, Tom Taylor, Shirley Brooks, Francis Cowley Burnand, Owen

Seaman,1893 Household Treasury of English Song William Henry Davenport Adams,1872 The Household Treasury of English Song Anonymous,2023-03-07 Reprint of the original first published in 1872 Poems of Nation,

Anthems of Empire Suvir Kaul,2000 In Poems of Nation Anthems of Empire Suvir Kaul argues that the aggressive nationalism of James Thomson s ode Rule Britannia 1740 is the condition to which much English poetry of the late seventeenth and eighteenth centuries aspires Poets as varied as Marvell Waller and Dryden Defoe Addison John Dyer and Edward Young or Goldsmith Cowper Hannah More and Anna Laetitia Barbauld all wrote poems deeply engaged with the British nation in the making These poets and many others like them recognized that the nation and its values and institutions were being defined by the expansion of overseas trade naval and military control plantations and colonies Their poems both embodied and were concerned about the culture and ideology of Great Britain itself an idea of the nation that developed alongside the formation of a British Empire Poems in this period thus flaunt various images of poetic inspiration that show poetry and culture following triumphantly where mercantile and military ships sail Or sometimes more self aggrandizingly for the poet they enact the process by which the Muses use their powers to inspire and show the way Even at their most hesitant these poems were written as interventions into public discussion their creativity is tied up with that desire to convince and persuade Finally as Kaul writes it is their encyclopedic desire to incorporate new experiences visions and values that makes these poems such fine guides to the world of poetry in the long years in which Great Britain was consolidated as an empire at home and abroad Supreme Court Reporter ,1900
