Higher Education Rankings and Their Worldwide Significance Mustafa Kayyali, 2025-11-25

In an era where education is seen as a cornerstone for social progress, economic development, and global competitiveness, understanding the intricacies of higher education rankings has become crucial. This new volume provides a comprehensive examination of higher education rankings, highlighting their significant influence on the global higher education landscape. It discusses the history, significance, and impact of higher education rankings and then delves into the metrics and ranking methodologies, the pros and cons of ranking systems, the academic research and socioeconomic implications, the role of citations and publications in research-based rankings, and much more. Offering a thorough exposition of the convoluted web of higher education rankings, this volume will be a valuable reference for academicians, policymakers, and administrators, exposing the channels by which rankings might drive the development of techniques and research systems on a worldwide scale. The

Great Transformation in Higher Education, 1960-1980 Clark Kerr, 1991-01-01. Clark Kerr, former President of the University of California and a leader in higher education policymaking, offers his views of the turbulent decades when colleges and universities scrambled to provide faculty and facilities for the burgeoning student population, only to be faced later with economic depression and subsequent conservatism. From his unique vantage point, Kerr offers insights into the role of higher education, its performance under pressure, its changing climate, its efforts to serve the multiplicity of demands made upon it, and its success or failure in meeting those demands. Geopolitical Transformations in Higher Education

Marcelo Parreira do Amaral, Christiane Thompson, 2022-03-28. This book discusses the central role education and research play in generating both value and comparative advantages in the imaginations of global competition, competitiveness, and transnational value chains. They are seen as assets placed at the forefront of developments that are arguably reshaping individuals, society, and economy. This edited volume explores these developments in terms of changing relations between society, economy, science, and individuals. The idea that we live in global knowledge societies and knowledge-based economies, or that present-day productive systems constitute an industry 4.0, have gained currency as descriptions of contemporary society that are said to bear direct and indirect consequences for political, economic, and social orders. In this context, innovation, science, and education are central themes in contemporary discussions about the future of modern societies. Innovation is enthusiastically embraced as the panacea for all sorts of societal issues of our times; science is equally deemed to play a decisive role in solving current problems and in heralding a bright future with more wealth and more welfare for all citizens. Education is conferred the task of producing individuals equipped with both skills and competences considered key to innovation, but also displaying the attitudes and dispositions that will secure continuous innovation and economic growth.

Transformative Perspectives and Processes in Higher Education Amber Dailey-Hebert, Kay S. Dennis, 2014-11-07. This
