Longitudinal Research On Individual Development Present Status And Future Perspectives:

Longitudinal Research on Individual Development David Magnusson, Paul Casaer, 1993-11-18 This book examines the scope for longitudinal studies in a range of developmental fields Studying individual Development in An interindividual Context Lars R. Bergman, David Magnusson, Bassam M. El Khouri, 2003-01-30 During the last decade there has been increased awareness of the limitations of standard approaches to the study of development When the focus is on variables and relationships the individual is easily lost This book describes an alternative person oriented approach in which the focus is on the individual as a functioning whole The authors take as their theoretical starting points the holistic interactionistic research paradigm expounded by David Magnusson and others and the new developmental science in which connections and interactions between different systems biological psychological social etc are stressed They present a quantitative methodology for preserving to the maximum extent possible the individual as a functioning whole that is largely based on work carried out in the Stockholm Laboratory for Developmental Science over the past 20 years The book constitutes a complete introductory guide to the person oriented approach The authors lay out the underlying theory a number of basic methods the necessary computer programs and an extensive empirical example The computer programs have been collected into a statistical package SLEIPNER that is freely accessible on the Internet The empirical example deals with boys school adjustment from a pattern perspective and covers both positive and negative adaptation Studying Individual Development in an Interindividual Context A Person Oriented Approach will be crucial reading for all researchers who seek to understand the complexities of human development and for their advanced students Advances in Psychological Science: Social, personal, and cultural aspects John G. Adair, David Bélanger, Kenneth L. Dion, Michel Sabourin, 1998 The volumes Advances in Psychological Science are the most timely reviews for a person who wants an up to date state of the art description of selected topics in psychology These volumes will be useful for the graduate student to get a perspective on the latest developments in psychology today The chapters are written in a non technical manner i e not for the specialist but for the educated psychologist who wishes to see developments across the spectrum of psychology They may be used for teaching or by experts who wish an overview of recent advances in their science The chapters uniquely reflect the international or global character of psychology both in the authors selected to write them and in their coverage of research from around the world Volume 1 contains original contributions to the social personal and cultural aspects of the discipline Advances in Psychological Science, Volume 2 Fergus Craik, Michele Robert, Michel Sabourin, 2014-01-21 The chapters in this volume are the edited versions of invited addresses to the XXVI International Congress of Psychology held in Montréal in August 1996 As one major goal of the Congress was to promote communication among specializations in scientific psychology the speakers were asked to survey their research area and present their own work in a way that would be accessible to their colleagues in other areas Another purpose of the meeting was to bring researchers together from different parts of the world reflecting their different approaches to the scientific study of mind brain and behavior Consequently the eminent researchers who have written the twenty six chapters included in the present volume were drawn from universities and research institutes in North America Europe Japan Russia Israel and New Zealand The chapters cover a range of topics in human and animal experimental psychology The first section deals with psychobiological processes the interplay of body and mind in determining intelligence stress and pain The next five chapters address current issues in neuropsychology and neuroscience including the neural correlates of attention and vision A third section looks at learning processes in humans and animals and a fourth deals with a range of topics in perception and cognition The final five chapters take a developmental perspective presenting theoretical and empirical analyses of the acquisition of perceptual and cognitive abilities Overall the collection illustrates the growing trend to break down traditional barriers between areas of experimental psychology there are many instances of profitable interactions between researchers studying aspects of behavior and those studying the biological bases of these behaviors The twenty six chapters give an excellent overview of current research in scientific psychology

The Lifespan Development of Individuals David Magnusson, 1997-10-28 A full understanding of the developmental process in individuals requires contributions from disciplines including developmental biology and psychology physiology neuropsychology social psychology sociology and anthropology This ambitious and wide ranging book integrates the findings from these and related areas to form a holistic view of human development from conception to death Distinguished scientists have combined their expertise in a synthesis of biological and social sciences that will demand the attention of all researchers and practitioners concerned with human development across the lifespan Based on a Nobel symposium the topics discussed range from the function and development of single cells to the whole organism interacting with its environment Drawing upon new theories and models including the study of nonlinear dynamic systems and chaos theory this book represents a major step in the move towards an integrated science of human development

Handbook of the Life Course Michael J. Shanahan, Jeylan T. Mortimer, Monica Kirkpatrick Johnson, 2015-10-26 Building on the success of the 2003 Handbook of the Life Course this second volume identifies future directions for life course research and policy The introductory essay and the chapters that make up the five sections of this book show consensus on strategic next steps in life course studies These next steps are explored in detail in each section Section I on life course theory provides fresh perspectives on well established topics including cohorts life stages and legal and regulatory contexts It challenges life course scholars to move beyond common individualistic paradigms Section II highlights changes in major institutional and organizational contexts of the life course It draws on conceptual advances and recent empirical findings to identify promising avenues for research that illuminate the interplay between structure and agency It examines trends in family school and workplace as well as contexts that deserve heightened attention including the military the criminal justice system and natural and man made disaster The remaining three sections consider advances and suggest strategic opportunities in the study of health and development throughout the life course They explore methodological innovations including qualitative and three generational longitudinal research designs causal analysis growth curves and the study of place Finally they show ways to build bridges between life course research and public policy Developmental Science and the Holistic Approach Lars R. Bergman, Robert B. Cairns, Lars-Goran Nilsson, Lars Nystedt, 2000 This volume celebrates David Magnusson's career long contributions with a collection of chapters by internationally renowned colleagues on the holistic approach that is transforming developmental psychology For developmentalists and lifespan researchers The Berlin Aging Study Paul B. Baltes, Karl Ulrich Mayer, 2001-03-19 The present and future of our society are shaped by an ever increasing proportion of old and very old people The Berlin Aging Study is one of the largest interdisciplinary efforts to explore old age and aging Unique aspects of the Berlin Aging Study are the spectrum of scientific disciplines involved the range of discipline specific and interdisciplinary research topics the focus on very old age 70 to over 100 years and the empirical reference to a representative heterogeneous urban population The study's first cross sectional findings on intellectual abilities self and personality social relationships physical health functional capacity medical treatment mental disorders such as depression and dementia socioeconomic conditions activities everyday competence subjective well being and gender differences are reported in depth in this book The study was carried out in the context of the Berlin Brandenburg Academy of Sciences study group on Aging and Social Development The authors primarily conduct their research at the Berlin Max Planck Institute for Human Development the Free University of Berlin and the Humboldt University Berlin Handbook of Research Methods in Developmental Science Douglas M. Teti, 2008-04-15 The Handbook of Research Methods in Developmental Science is a collection of newly written articles that provide an overview of methods and approaches associated with the study of human development Contains accessible contributions from some of the most renowned developmental scientists in the field Provides basic information on the strengths and challenges inherent in traditional and complex research design Discusses successful intervention approaches that have been used to promote intellectual social and linguistic development Includes cutting edge research that is forging new and exciting directions in developmental research Provides students and scholars with a working understanding of research approaches and issues in the developmental sciences Concepts and Theories of Human Development Richard M.
