Introduction of new diagnostic methods including various imaging techniques in the field of orthopaedic surgery has enabled us to make early and precise diagnoses of musculoskeletal tumors. In addition, recent progress in the chemotherapy and radiotherapy of malignant tumors has raised the five year survival rate remarkably although complete recovery from these treatments alone cannot be expected as yet. These medical advances naturally stimulate the search for ways of limb salvage even in malignant musculoskeletal oncology. To this purpose not only oncologists but orthopaedic surgeons, radiologists, engineers and biomaterials scientists should work together to design suitable surgical procedures and prostheses using autograft, allograft and biomaterials. The First International Workshop on the Design and Application of Tumor Prostheses for Bone and Joint Reconstruction was held in 1981 in Rochester, Minnesota. Participants were of an interdisciplinary nature in order to establish a basis for cooperative efforts which have subsequently spread throughout the world. Since then, biennial international symposia have been held successively in Vienna, Florida and Kyoto. Previous gatherings of this prestigious series were open only to a small number of experts.      National Cancer Institute Monograph National Cancer Institute (U.S.), 1959      National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),      Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1983. It provides unique and practical guidelines for the diagnosis and treatment of soft tissue tumors including surgery, radiotherapy, chemotherapy, target therapy and immunotherapy. Soft Tissue Sarcoma and Leiomyoma: Diagnosis, Management and New Perspectives is an essential reference source for surgeons, oncologists, pathologists, epidemiologists and postgraduate students.      Recent Concepts in Sarcoma Treatment J.R. Ryan, L.O. Baker, 2012-12-06. There have been significant advances in the treatment of sarcomas in the past several years. Further different clinical treatment programs are being advocated in different areas including surgery alone, surgery with preoperative or postoperative chemotherapy, surgery with different radiotherapy modalities, with each investigator espousing his own treatment program. On the other side, there is the question of whether these treatment programs are offering better results or whether the natural history of sarcomas has changed. The International Symposium on Sarcomas was held at Innisbrook Resort, Tarpon Springs, Florida, October 8-10, 1987. This was the first international symposium to date involving all of the disciplines treating sarcomas including pathologists, orthopaedic surgeons, general surgeons, medical oncologists, pediatric oncologists and radiation oncologists. The Symposium brought together a number of specialists working in the clinical field of sarcomas for a presentation of their specific treatment programs and their results. The presentations were followed by panel discussions to stimulate educational debate as to the different forms of treatment for sarcomas and to formulate some conformity in control of disease control of spread and ultimate function for the patient. As in CANCER CHEMOTHERAPY 1 this volume brings to the reader highlights in three different areas of cancer therapeutics new concepts and models drug classes and clinical settings Topics were chosen because of their timeliness or probable current impact in cancer treatment Authors were selected on the basis of their ability to provide a critical overview of specific subjects and their involvement in original work I shall review the aims of this second volume and then elaborate on the scope of its contents The principal aim of the volumes on cancer chemotherapy in the Cancer Treatment and Research series as stated in the preface to the first volume is to assemble in a concentrated form selected ingredients of chemotherapeutic progress These ingredients are to include concepts in therapeutic strategy pre clinical studies development of major classes of compounds identification of new directions and of landmarks of clinical progress Thus we do not foresee overlap with series which provide an yearly update of chemotherapy in an encyclopedic manner or reviews of cancer chemotherapy Unlike those publications our volumes are not intended to seek a place in shelves as a reference manual It is this Editor's hope that persons representing various biomedical disciplines will seek the Cancer Treatment and Research chemotherapy volumes to survey advances in the field at regular intervals
