THE OHIO ART COMPANY
To keep up with the rapidly growing demand for his frames, Henry Winzeler expanded the company into the Opera House and the E. P. Merry Drug Store Building in early 1909. Each of Henry's business locations were all within this block in Archbold. Then, in about 1911, he wanted to expand his business farther and sought a loan from a local bank to refinance the venture. When the bank wanted too much of the business in return, Winzeler turned to private financing and received enough to move The Ohio Art Company to a building on High Street in Bryan where operations continue. In 1914, with the advent of World War I and an embargo in Germany, The Ohio Art Company joined the toy manufacturing business and acquired lithography equipment to print on metal surfaces. Ohio Art is best known for the world famous Etch A Sketch, first manufactured in 1960.
