Earthquake Geotechnical Engineering

Design Michele Maugeri,Claudio Soccodato,2014-02-03 Pseudo static analysis is still the most used method to assess the stability of geotechnical systems that are exposed to earthquake forces However this method does not provide any information about the deformations and permanent displacements induced by seismic activity Moreover it is questionable to use this approach when geotechnical systems are affected by frequent and rare seismic events Incidentally the peak ground acceleration has increased from 0 2 0 3 g in the seventies to the current value of 0 6 0 8 g Therefore a shift from the pseudo static approach to performance based analysis is needed Over the past five years considerable progress has been made in Earthquake Geotechnical Engineering Design EGED The most recent advances are presented in this book in 6 parts The evaluation of the site amplification is covered in Part I of the book In Part II the evaluation of the soil foundation stability against natural slope failure and liquefaction is treated In the following 3 Parts of the book the EGED for different geotechnical systems is presented as follows the design of levees and dams including natural slopes in Part III the design of foundations and soil structure interaction analysis in Part IV underground structures in Part V Finally in Part VI new topics like the design of reinforced earth retaining walls and landfills are covered

Planting Design: Seaside and Shelter Deborah Jolley,2013-04-04 Designing a garden by the sea poses special problems for the designer High winds and salt spray can wreak havoc with planting schemes and the need to provide sheltered areas for sitting and entertaining may be difficult to achieve On the positive side the proximity of the sea greatly reduces the chances of damaging spring frosts so the designer may choose from a far wider palette of plants than is possible further inland including the exotic and sub tropical species currently in vogue A balance between providing sufficient shelter to satisfy the client's needs and allowing views to the sea to be maintained and enhanced is the challenge facing every designer The book explains the particular process of analysis needed for maritime environments the effects of wind and salt spray and the microclimates created by sea and wind The establishment and maintenance of shelter belts is fully explained together with practical information about the choice and implementation of planting schemes A suggested list of suitable plants for windswept sites is included Each chapter is accompanied by case studies of actual coastal gardens
