Lieberman, M. Fullan, D.W. Hopkins, 2014-11-14 The International Handbook of Educational Change is a state of the art collection of the most important ideas and evidence of educational change The book brings together some of the most influential thinkers and writers on educational change It deals with issues like educational innovation reform restructuring culture building inspection school review and change management It asks why some people resist change and what their resistance means It looks at how men and women older teachers and younger teachers experience change differently It looks at the positive aspects of change but does not hesitate to raise uncomfortable questions about many aspects of educational change either It looks critically and controversially at the social economic cultural and political forces that are driving educational change School leaders system administration teacher leaders consultants facilitators educational researchers staff developers and change agents of all kinds will find this book an indispensable resource for guiding them to both classic and cutting edge understandings of educational change no other work provides as comprehensive coverage of the field of educational change Teaching and Managing Cyril Wilkinson, Ernie Cave, 2018-05-11 Originally published in 1987 It has been questioned whether management theory can offer viable insights for education largely because unlike many other institutions there is no exclusive managerial structure in schools the roles of the teacher and manager are inextricably linked This dual role usually even includes the head of a school Nevertheless some schools seem to be more effective than others This book argues that although teaching and managing are inseparable they are not necessarily indistinguishable activities and that important non teaching roles can be identified through critical analysis of practice in different educational contexts The first section describes developments in organisational theory that are producing useful models for school life and also for other comparable areas in the public sector such as health the police and local government The second section examines the actual processes of management in context by analysing how leadership planning decision making and communication operate in real situations
