Key Debates in the Translation of Advertising Material Beverly Adab, Cristina Valdes, 2016-04-01 Much has been written about the marketing aspects of promotional material in general and several scholars particularly in linguistics have addressed questions relating to the structure and function of advertisements focusing on images rhetorical structure semiotic functions discourse features and audio visual media amongst other aspects of the genre Not much on the other hand has been written within translation studies about the complexities involved in the transfer of an advertising message Contributors to this volume explore various interdependent aspects of the interlingual and intercultural transfer of an advertising message They emphasize features of culture specificity of multi medial semiotic interaction of values and stereotypes and most importantly they recommend strategies and approaches to assist translators Topics covered include a critique of the Western based approach to advertising in the context of the Far East different perceptions of the concept of cleanliness in advertising texts in Italy Russia and the UK the Walls Cornetto strategy of internationalization of product appeal followed by localization the role of the translator in recreating appeal in different lingua cultural contexts what constitutes Italianness in advertisements for British consumers and strategies for repackaging France as a tourist destination

Everything You Didn't Need to Know About the UK Nick Brownlee, 2010-03-15 How to make a perfect cuppa the Union Jack explained the identity of the only American buried in Westminster Abbey and why cricket is so exciting to the British these are just a few of the tidbits in this entertaining trivia book on all things U K The perfect traveling companion this portable guide is filled with entertaining anecdotes and fresh facts on geography architecture sports music cuisine the arts science and more Through the Looking Glass Liz Davies, 2001 Liz Davies provides an insider's account of the annihilation of the Labour Party's internal democracy She reveals in detail the extent to which cynical doublethink has come to permeate the party's leadership Genetically Modified Food Andy Rees, 2006-08-20 Written by a leading campaigner for GM Watch one of the world's leading lobbying groups this book reveals the huge issues that are at stake Genetically modified food has been headline news for years but it's difficult to know how far the genetic revolution has affected our lives Is the food on our shelves free of genetically engineered ingredients How much power do food corporations wield Andy Rees provides the answers He shows that while corporations that produce genetically modified food have met with resistance in Europe their hold on the US market is strong They're also expanding operations in less regulated countries in Africa Asia and the former Soviet bloc The US has launched a legal suit to attempt to force the European market open to genetically modified food What does the future hold This brilliantly readable book tells us all we need to know Auditing in the Food Industry M Dillon,C Griffith,2001-07-12 The food industry faces an unprecedented level of scrutiny Consumers are not only concerned with the safety and quality of food products but also the way in which they are produced At the same time the food industry has developed new ways of assuring appropriate standards for its products and their methods of production developing systems such as TQM and HACCP to identify and manage key steps in production These new methods require new skills in auditing Auditing in the food industry provides an authoritative guide to the range of standards and the auditing skills they demand Part one sets the scene with an introductory chapter reviewing developments in standards affecting the food industry There then follows chapters on how retailers audit their suppliers and how governments have moved from a traditional inspection role to one of regulatory verification with its emphasis on auditing the robustness of a business s own systems for managing safety and quality Part two examines the key aspects of safety and quality A first chapter reviews the ways retailers assess supplier HACCP systems There is then a chapter reviewing TQM systems that provides a context for a discussion of auditing techniques for HACCP based quality systems A final chapter looks at standards governing the analytical methods used in safety and quality control Part three considers newer standards that are becoming increasingly important in the food industry There are chapters on benchmarking an organisation against others as a way of improving performance auditing the impact of food processing operations on the environment and auditing organic food processing Auditing in the food industry is a valuable guide to the range of standards facing the food industry and the ways it can audit and thus improve the quality of its performance The Making of the Modern Supermarket Bridget Salmon,Andrew Godley,2025-06-04 The Making of the Modern Supermarket describes the emergence and growth of the modern supermarket format in Britain showing how the original American innovation of self service was adapted to the different postwar British context in a number of ways During the early 1960s various retailers began to experiment with larger formats which became known as supermarkets Sainsbury s was a late mover into self service but began to develop a different supermarket model emphasising fresh foods and perishable goods This led it to pursue a more expensive path of development as it invested in self service creating its novel supermarket format by the end of the 1960s The book explores in detail how this Sainsbury s format evolved It was driven by the company s historic commitment to selling fresh meat and other perishable goods which demanded a much greater commitment to refrigeration in Sainsbury s self service format than was the case for its peers Because most consumers were suspicious of buying fresh meat and perishables through self service outlets in the early 1960s Sainsbury s also had to retain high levels of staffing to support their self service offering During the 1960s as they extended their product range they facilitated the development of one stop shopping in the UK where customers were able to buy all their food requirements in one shop rather than shopping around This became the most popular version of the supermarket format and it was the template that others copied as they tried to follow Sainsbury's example

Making the Most of Haccp T Mayes, S Mortimore, 2001-05-17 The Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point HACCP system has now become generally accepted as the key safety management system for the food industry worldwide. Whilst there are numerous publications on its principles and methods of implementation, there are relatively few on the experience of those who have actually implemented HACCP systems in practice and what can be learnt from that experience. Edited by two leading authorities on the subject and with an international team of contributors, Making the most of HACCP describes that experience and what it can teach about implementing and developing HACCP systems effectively.

Retail Change Rosemary D.F. Bromley, Colin J Thomas, 2002-11-01 The economic, social and environmental implications of recent changes in retailing constitute significant contemporary issues which are the focus of this timely book. Retail change deals with the internationalization of retailing, the development of shopping centres in the city and at suburban sites and the growth of leisure shopping. It provides an up-to-date review of the central questions faced by undergraduate students in planning, business studies and geography. The retail environment of developed economies has undergone revolutionary change since the 1970s and the process is far from over. In the book, the major elements central to contemporary retail change are developed across the whole spectrum of spatial scales relevant to present-day society. The first part adopts an economic perspective and focuses on the process of business concentration and its increasingly international orientation. This is followed by analyses of change in the urban region, concentrating on the emergence of the great variety of new retail forms associated with retail decentralization. The planning implications of retail change are developed in the third part. The future of the city centre and other traditional shopping centres is examined in the light of challenges presented by new facilities. Alternative future scenarios contingent upon laissez faire or interventionist government policy controls are also discussed. The social implications of retail change are developed in the final section. All students and researchers concerned with the evolution and development of the retail sector of advanced economies will welcome this book as an authoritative source of contemporary findings and commentary. Rosemary D. Bromley and Colin J. Thomas are Lecturers in Geography at the University College of Swansea, Wales. This book is intended for undergraduate students taking courses in economic geography and retailing in departments of geography, business studies, planning, etc.
